

Baltimore County Marriage References

compiled by Robert Barnes

The following marriage references were gleaned from Baltimore County deed books at the Hall of Records in Annapolis, and were found "by accident" as the compiler was researching other families. They are offered here in the hopes that someone will find a helpful clue to marriage of an ancestor. The entries consist of the name of husband, the date by which the marriage had taken place, and the name of the wife. The land record book and folio (page) number are given in parentheses.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING COMMON GENEALOGICAL PROBLEMS

One of the most basic genealogical problems is finding the parents of an individual. The following suggestions may be obvious to some researchers, but are offered here in the hopes they will present some new sources to others.

1. Contact living relatives who might know.
2. Look for family Bibles in relatives' homes, in local libraries, in nationwide repositories, and in published collections of Bible records.
3. See if birth certificates were issued for that period in the state where the individual was born.
4. Obtain a death certificate of the individual.
5. Check local newspapers for obituaries. In addition to the brief notice of death and time and place of burial many newspapers contain longer write-ups on some of the deceased, which contain more biographical information.
6. Visit the cemetery where the deceased is buried and see if the names of the parents are on the tombstone.
7. Check probate records for individuals of same name to see if your person is listed as an heir. Don't stop with wills; check administration accounts and inventories.
8. Investigate possible churches for location of baptismal records.
9. Remember to research the land records--deeds may show your person selling land which the deed states he or she had inherited from a parent or grandparent.
10. Dig up old chancery and/or equity cases to see if your quarry was one of several heirs named in a suit to settle an estate.
11. Investigate guardian accounts, orphans court indentures, orphans court proceedings and county court proceedings to see if your ancestor was ever made a ward of the court, or bound out as an apprentice.
12. Obtain a complete list of the person's own children and/or siblings, to see if a recurring given or middle name may suggest a parent. Among certain ethnic groups the naming of children followed a pattern.
13. Check county histories and published genealogies.
14. If all else fails, go through steps 1-13 for each of the siblings of your ancestor.
15. Keep on trying. Parents' names will be found in unusual places. This writer once found the name of his great-great-grandfather's father in a list of patients visited by a particular doctor.

A SALUTE TO THE BALTIMORE COUNTY GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY IN ITS FOURTH YEAR

It has been marvelous to note the growth of the Baltimore County Genealogical Society after just three years. Much of the credit needs to be given to the very faithful and hardworking officers and committee chairpersons.

President Angela Iardella - with a strong guiding hand, outstanding leadership, keen interest and devoted love - has served three years. Also, Secretary Aleda Bunch has served for three years, working hard and contributing envelopes and postage to cover the cost of the mailings.

Although ~~we~~ we cannot name all the workers and members who have helped to make the Society grow, to all we say a heartfelt Thank you!..Thank You!

BOOK REVIEW

Index of Baltimore County Wills, 1659-1850, compiled by Bettie S. Carothers and Robert W. Barnes, 1510 Cranwell Road, Lutherville, Maryland, 21092. 1979.

This index is easier to use than the index to wills in the Baltimore City Court House because it is strictly alphabetical, whereas the index in the Baltimore City Court House uses the Burr system. Where more than one spelling of a name occurs, both spellings are given. Errors in the Court House index have been corrected, and some wills that are not listed in the c. h. index have been included in this one. It is unfortunate that this index was not extended another year or two to the beginning of the index of wills on file at the Towson Court House.

I SAW IN THE PAPERS...

From the Towson Jeffersonian, 4 March 1949:

Mrs. EFFIE RENA WOODING, 80, of Phillipsburg, Kansas, a former resident of Baltimore County, is endeavoring to establish the date of her birth in order to straighten out a legal matter. She was born at Parkton on October 5, 1869, and is connected in some way with the TALBOT and STIFLER families. Her father was the late DANIEL STANSBURY, and her mother was the late ELIZABETH CHILCOAT STANSBURY.

Mrs. Wooding, whose husband, a pensioned railroad switchman, died on January 26th last, believes there may be some old residents in the upper part of the county who remembers her family and can furnish the date of her birth.

Anyone who can furnish the desired information will please contact the Jeffersonian, or call Mrs. Wooding direct.

This item was submitted by Pat Czerniewski, member of the BCGS.

GENEALOGICAL WORK IN PROGRESS

Your editor is compiling material to be published by the Genealogical Publishing Company on all the families that lived in Baltimore County, 1659-1759. I have already abstracted all administration accounts, and am currently working on the court records and births found in the extant church and Quaker records. If space allows it, some families may be continued beyond the 1759 cutoff date.

Queries pertaining to specific families will be answered as time allows, and if a SASE is enclosed with the query.

As the season draws to a close, I would like to thank all those members of the Society who contributed to the Notebook by mailing it to others, by submitting queries and articles, by having pages duplicated at no cost to the Society, and by letting me know what they like about the Notebook. If I named names, I might inadvertently leave someone out, so I will say "thank you," to all.

BUDGET CUTS THREATEN NATIONAL ARCHIVES

Dr. Malcolm H. Stern, Fellow of the American Society of Genealogists, writes that the Reagan budget as approved by Congress is posing serious threats to the services which the National Archives will be able to render all of us interested in genealogy. The cuts in staff, programs, and publications will affect our research.

We can do something to counteract these problems.

We can help to make the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) an independent institution by urging our senators to support the pending Archives Independence Bill S-1421, and by requesting the Senate to hold hearings on the bill this year. At present NARS is a subsidiary of the General Services Administration, which is not particularly sympathetic to researchers' needs. An independent NARS would have the right to appeal directly to Congress for its specific needs to preserve, catalogue, and make available the records of our nation. The entire bill with supporting arguments can be found in the Congressional Record of 24 June 1981. Please write to your senators today.

While the Baltimore County Genealogical Society takes no stand on political issues, we feel a responsibility to bring matters affecting genealogists to the attention of our members.

BASIC RECORDS OF THE ORPHANS' COURT

The following terms and definitions were found in Morris L. Radoff, Gust Skordas, and Phebe R. Jacobsen, The County Courthouses and Records of Maryland; Part Two: The Records (Publication No. 13, the Hall of Records Commission, State of Maryland, Annapolis, 1963).

ORPHANS COURT MINUTES OR PROCEEDINGS. These are records of the orders, decisions, and other proceedings of the Orphans' Court. Sometimes guardian bonds, indentures of orphans and apprentices, and certificates of freedom were recorded here. Later separate series of records carried some of these transactions.

ADMINISTRATION DOCKETS, or ESTATE DOCKETS. These vary from county to county, but usually list the name of the deceased, and his executor or administrator, and the dates and references to the filing of certain key documents. Important because administration was sometimes granted on an estate, and then nothing more was done.

PETITIONS AND ORDERS. These contain items pertaining to the settlement of estates.

WILLS. The written testamentary wishes of a person indicating how his or her property is to be divided.

ADMINISTRATION BONDS. These were bonds filed by administrators or executors requiring that they faithfully carry out their responsibilities. Usually two bondsmen or securities would also sign. They may have been relatives of the administrator or executor. Examples exist of such bonds being filed, indicating that someone had died, but no further action was taken on the estate.

INVENTORIES. These were lists of the personal property of the deceased compiled by two appraisers, signed by two "of the nearest kinsmen," and two of the greatest creditors. They contain information on the furnishings of the decedent's house, his tools, his cultural interests, and his relative economic status in the neighborhood. After 1848 real property had to be included.

ACCOUNT (OF) SALES. These recorded the sales of the personal property listed in the inventories. They often showed the names of purchasers, thus giving clues to kinsmen and neighbors.

ADMINISTRATION ACCOUNTS. These show payments and disbursements made by the administrators/executors, as well as sums paid into the estate. They start with a statement of the decedent's worth as shown in the inventory, or carried over from the previous administration account. Payments to heirs were often included. If the account ends with a sum indicated "estate overpaid," there was probably no later account, but if there was a sum indicated "balance due the estate," look for an additional account. Read every account to see if any genealogical relationships or references to other peoples' estates are given.

DISTRIBUTIONS. A series of records kept in some counties (e.g., Anne Arundel and Harford), but not all, showing how the remaining balances on estates were distributed among the heirs.

RECEIPTS AND RELEASES. Receipts of heirs, wards, minors, and others acknowledging they have received their share of money and property coming to them, and releasing the administrator from further responsibility.

INDENTURES. Records of orphans and other children bound out as apprentices. These were found in the proceedings of the county court, then in the proceedings of the orphans' court, and finally as a separate series of records.

If a decedent left minor children, the following should be checked:

GUARDIAN DOCKETS

GUARDIAN BONDS

GUARDIAN ACCOUNTS.

GENEALOGICAL COUNCIL OF MARYLAND ANNOUNCES TWO PROJECTS

The Council would like to compile a finding list of available Church and Bible records that can be found in the various counties. They are asking each Genealogical Society or Club to survey their county, and the Council is willing to supply guidelines if needed.

If anyone would like to undertake compiling a list of Bible records or Church records to be found in the county (and hopefully copying the Bible records for our own files), please contact the editor. Neither project will be completed quickly, but both projects will be of great help to researchers.

SURNAME ISSUE

Some time ago members of the Baltimore County Genealogical Society were asked to fill out a form listing the surnames they were interested in with the state and/or county of residence, and the date the family appeared in the area. Those names were put on 3 x 5 cards and each member of the Society given a code number. In this issue we shall list surnames of Baltimore City, Baltimore County, and Harford County submitted by our members. In future issues of The Notebook we shall list surnames from the United States, and from other parts of Maryland. One request we make: if this issue helps put members in touch with each other, and information is exchanged, how about making a copy of the data for the Society's files. -- The Editor.

1910 CENSUS AVAILABLE

On 15 April 1982 the 1910 Census will be available to researchers at the National Archives. It is expected that the 11 regional archives branches will have copies for use by this fall. Some of the questions asked in the 1910 Census included whether an individual was a survivor of the Union or Confederate Army, whether the home was a farm or a house, and what was the individual's native language.

A free catalogue listing the information contained on each roll as well as a roll by roll listing of the index microfilm may be obtained by writing NEPS, National Archives, Washington, S. C., 20408.

Unfortunately only 21 states have had indices prepared to date. The states with indices are:

Alabama	Illinois	Missouri	South Carolina
Arkansas	Kansas	North Carolina	Tennessee
California	Kentucky	Ohio	Texas
Florida	Louisiana	Oklahoma	Virginia
Georgia	Michigan	Pennsylvania	West Virginia

TAKING STOCK

In May 1982 Evelyn Pearce completed her term of office as the second President of the Baltimore County Genealogical Society. Her presidency saw the Society become incorporated, obtain a post office mailing address, receive a tax-exempt number, and adopt a logo (which she designed). The logo has been incorporated on the stationery of the society.

Evelyn's eighteen months as President saw the continuation and completion of projects begun under former President Angela Iardella. The by-laws were revised. The Notebook continued its sporadic appearance under the editor; this is number 15. The Cemetery Project reached one phase of completion with the photocopying, alphabetizing, and typing of the interment cards.

Again many volunteers have helped the activities of the society go forward so that the meetings became enjoyable gatherings of like-minded people (as far as genealogy is concerned) who could share information, experience, and skills, talk shop, and enjoy a pleasant afternoon. To name all the volunteers is to risk omitting some, but the editor is grateful for the assistance of Mr. Edward Goodman in securing copies of the Bulletin, and of Mrs. Peter Kelly in mailing the Notebook to out of town members. To all those volunteers and to the outgoing officers the Society extends sincere thanks.

Vital Records

For birth and death records from Baltimore City from 1875, and for the rest of the state after 1898, send $2.00 for each official transcript desired to: Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, Division of Vital Records, P. O. Box 13146, Baltimore, Maryland, 21203. For marriage records after 1951 write to the same place.

Some vital records, especially copies of marriage certificates, prior to those dates may be secured from the county court houses. Some counties have sent their marriage license books to the Hall of Records in Annapolis, Maryland. Births and deaths prior to 1898 (1875 in Baltimore City) will have to be found in individual church registers.

Census Records

The census records for Maryland may be seen at the National Archives in Washington, D. C., or at various local libraries in Maryland. The Maryland Historical Society has all of the extant censuses for Maryland from 1790 through 1900, with all of the extant indices (1790--1850; partial index for 1880; and complete index for 1900). Some census records for Maryland (if not all) may also be searched at the Enoch Pratt Free Library, Baltimore, the Hall of Records in Annapolis, and the State Library in Annapolis.

Cemetery Records

There is no one central repository for all cemetery records in Maryland. One must contact the individual cemeteries, many of which have a set rate of fees for searching their records. Many county historical societies, patriotic groups, or individuals have copied cemetery inscriptions for a particular county. Cemetery inscriptions have been published for Frederick County, Dorchester County, Howard County, Wicomico County, southern Anne Arundel County, while typescript compilations of many cemeteries exist for Baltimore County, Prince Georges County, and Washington County, as well as Harford and Cecil Counties. Cemetery projects are currently being undertaken in Carroll, Howard, and Baltimore Counties.

Church Records

Again there is no one central repository for church records in Maryland. One must contact the individual church. However many church records have either deposited the originals or had the originals microfilmed by the Hall of Records, and there are some 200 or more volumes of church registers, or transcripts of church registers, at the Maryland Historical Society in Baltimore.

Newspapers

Two major repositories of newspapers are the Maryland Historical Society and the Maryland Department of the Enoch Pratt Free Library, both in Baltimore. The State Library in Annapolis has some, and individual county historical and genealogical societies may contain collections.

Marriage, death, and other notices of genealogical interest have been abstracted and published for many Maryland newspapers by Robert Barnes, F. Edward Wright, and Thomas L. Hallowak. The Maryland State Department of Education in 1977 published a Guide to Newspapers in Maryland Libraries which detailed the holdings of many public and college libraries.

Military Records

Musters and pay rolls are indexed on cards at the Hall of Records, for Colonial Wars. Records for the Revolutionary period are found at both the State and National level. For a succinct discussion of the locations of manuscript and published records in the State of Maryland, see Mary K. Meyer, Genealogical Research in Maryland: A Guide (Baltimore: Maryland Historical Society, 1976), pp. 28-34.

Genealogical Societies and Libraries

For the names and addresses of county historical societies in 1976 see Meyer, Guide, pp. 51-59. For the names and addresses of genealogical societies in Maryland as of 1980, see Mary K. Meyer, Directory of Genealogical Societies in the U.S.A. and Canada; Third edition, 1980. (A new edition is in progress). Both the Guide and the Directory are invaluable aids for anyone wishing to do research in Maryland, and would be worth the purchase price. Both can be obtained from Mary K. Meyer, Genealogical Reference Librarian at the Maryland Historical Society.

Getting the Material

The best way to get the material desired is to visit the library and/or repository personally and do the research first hand. Since this is not always possible, the next method is to write to the library and ask their fee for looking for a certain kind of record. Most libraries and the Historical Society are understaffed, and it may take some time for an answer to come. There will probably be a fee charged for the work. Another method is to write to a local genealogical society and ask if anyone is working on a particular family, and ask for the information. Sometimes members of the county societies will do limited work for a modest fee, part of which goes to the society and part of which goes to the researcher. A final way is to engage a professional genealogist who may charge a higher fee than the volunteer at the county historical or genealogical society, but who may be able to obtain the records more quickly because of a wider knowledge of sources. Always send a self addressed stamped envelope when writing to anyone as it ensures a quicker response.

CITY DIRECTORIES

Many people know that the city directory is helpful in locating the names, addresses, and occupations of ancestors, but they are often unaware of the wealth of additional information afforded by the city directories. Front matter and supplemental material may include information on the history of the community, data on numbering of street blocks, names and addresses of churches, with ministers, as well as information on commercial establishments with names of their officers. Your editor was able to determine which Catholic Church was most likely to contain records of a German immigrant family by using the city directories and an atlas of the city. (He found the family in the first church he checked.)

It is helpful to know the years that city directories for a given city were published. Dorothea N. Spear compiled Bibliography of American Directories Through 1860, published by the American Antiquarian Society in 1961. Directories (or Directors as they were some times called) exist for Baltimore City for the years 1752 (broadside); 1796 (Thompson and Walker); 1799 (Mullin); 1800-1 (Warner and Hanna); 1802 (Stafford); 1803 (Stafford); 1804 (Robinson); 1807 (McHenry); 1808 (McHenry?); 1810 (Fry); 1812 (Fry); 1814-5 (Lakin); 1816 (Matchett); 1817-8 (Kennedy); 1819 (Jackson); 1822-3 (Keenan); 1824 (Matchett); 1827; 1829; 1831; 1833; 1835-6 (all by Matchett); 1836 (Lyford); 1837-8, 1840-1 (Matchett); 1842 (Craig); 1842 (Matchett); 1843 (Craig); 1845 (Murphy); 1847-8, 1849-50, 1851, 1853-4, 1855-6 (all by Matchett); 1856-7 (Woods); 1858 (Boyd); 1858-9 (Woods); 1859-60 (Ferslew); 1860 (Woods).

It is important to read the title page to determine the month through which the directory was corrected. It should also be noted that many directories for large cities contained smaller supplements for neighboring suburban communities.

A random sampling of Baltimore City Directories revealed that each of the samples contained much additional information. Matchett's Baltimore Director for 1835-6 contained an historical sketch of Baltimore, lists of city officials and their salaries, names and addresses of public buildings, churches, railroad companies, banks (with names of officers), steamboat lines, foreign consuls in Baltimore, insurance offices, and managers of the poor. Matchett's Baltimore Director for 1837-8 contained topography of Baltimore; a briefer history than appeared in the previous edition; statistics on interments; municipal offices, incumbents and salaries; public buildings with descriptions of the architecture; churches with addresses, descriptions, and names of clergy; sections on theatres, manufacturers, and commerce, and illustrated with engravings of Baltimore buildings. Murphy's Baltimore Directory for 1845 included a 12 page sketch of Baltimore; location of the streets, lanes, alleys, courts, and wharves; boundaries of the election wards (most helpful for the census in 1850); names, addresses, and officials of various institutions; newspapers; churches; and courts of Maryland.

For additional information on getting the most out of city directories, see Robert Elmer Ward, "The City Directory; A Key to Family History," in Family Heritage, vol. 2, no. 2, April 1979, pp. 54-59.

A CALL TO ARMS
(OR TYPEWRITERS)

An Editorial

The Hall of Records has announced it will have to close on Saturdays until they are afforded an adequate staff. If you enjoy going to the Hall of Records, which this Editor feels is one of the finest research facilities, write to Dr. Edward C. Papenfuse, Director of the Hall of Records, expressing your concern. Your letters will help him to show state officials that many citizens want the Hall of Records open on Saturday.

Mary K. Meyer is retiring as Genealogical Reference Librarian at the Maryland Historical Society effective 30 June 1983. A charter member of the Maryland Genealogical Society, she has served as editor of that Society's Bulletin in its early days, has established the Genealogical Council of Maryland, has compiled three directories of genealogical societies in the United States and Canada, is working on the 3rd revision of Genealogical Research in Maryland, and has worked long and diligently to improve the state of the art of genealogical research in Maryland. Plan to stop in at the Maryland Historical Society on 30 June to wish Mary a happy retirement.

The Baltimore County Genealogical Society is planning a picnic and "tombstone copying day" at St. James My Lady's Manor Church on Sunday, June 12. This historic cemetery has never been copied completely. Plan to come Sunday afternoon, bring some food, some pads, and pens, and enjoy a day of genealogical activity, fun and food. The church officials are delighted we are coming.

Your notebook needs material. Perhaps you have done some work with an unusual type of source record. Perhaps you have an old Bible you would copy. Perhaps you have found some material that corrects an error in print. Submit it to the Editor for the notebook. He will appreciate it very much.

Correspondence

Mrs. Milton Valpis has written to Mr. Haile to let all of us know that she appreciates the help afforded her by so many members.

Rick Schmidt writes that he purchased his copy of Die Postleitzahl, the German Zip Code Directory, from Genealogists' Bookshelf, P. O. Box 468, New York City, New York, 10028.

Stephen Shipley, State President(?) of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 4100 St. John's Lane, Ellicott City, Md., 21043, may be able to tell you exactly when the genealogical library will open.

If you are working on the Porter family, write Homer W. Porter, 6354 Elder Grove Dr., Dallas, Texas, 75232, with a legal size SASE for news of Porter research.

The form letters reproduced on page 2 are sent to us by Rick Schmidt.

The following letters may be used to send for information from the parish ministers or civil registration offices in Germany, Switzerland, and Austria. Generally, civil registration began in 1876 in Germany and Switzerland and in 1938 in Austria. In some areas in Germany civil registration began much earlier. Specific time periods are listed in the following book available in many libraries: A GENEALOGICAL HANDBOOK OF GERMAN RESEARCH, by Larry O. Jensen, P.O. Box 441, Pleasant Grove, Utah 84062.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS:

1. Recopy and send only the German portion of the letter, filling in the blank lines of the letter with the appropriate information.
2. Enclose $5.00 in bank draft or money order. Also enclose two International Reply Coupons which are available at the Post Office.

Respectfully,

Do You Have Scottish Ancestry?

The following books and articles may be helpful in establishing the origins of your Scottish ancestors. Dean L. McLeod, "Success in Tracing Your Scottish Ancestors," The Genealogical Helper, January - February 1980, pp. 8-13, has provided an excellent starting point. He begins by listing several helpful books on Scottish genealogy and then gives a list of periodicals. He warns the beginnings researcher of the importance of knowing the jurisdiction under which a given record may be found. He discusses the holdings of major Scottish repositories and gives suggestions as to where various kinds of records might be found. He concludes his article with a flow chart that may help in finding the place of origin of a Scottish emigrant to the New World.

Margaret Stuart's Scottish Family History, 1930 (Repr.: Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Company, 1983), contains an excellent bibliography of published and unpublished sources on Scottish families. Under the heading, Lyon family, several references are given to the Lyons of Ohil or Wester Ogle, believed to be the parent stock of the Lyon family of Baltimore County, Maryland. The first part of the book contains an essay by former Lord Lyon King of Arms, James Balfour Paul, on writing a family history. The article also contains explanations of some legal terms and procedures found in Scotland.

Gerald Hamilton Edwards, In Search of Scottish Ancestry (Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Company, 1980) contains basic record sources, chapters on Scottish surnames, census records, tax lists, and migration.

Two books have been published recently that attempt to identify Scottish immigrants and their places of origin. Donald Whyte, A Dictionary of Scottish Emigrants to the U. S. A. (Baltimore: Magna Charta Book Company, 1972), is an alphabetical listing of Scottish settlers giving their names, ages, place of origin and place of settlement. The source of the information is given in an abbreviated form and a fuller citation is given in the bibliography. Sources consulted include American and Scottish publications, family histories, and correspondence from the files of the Scottish genealogical Society.

David Dobson's new Directory of Scots Banished to the American Plantations, 1650-1775 (Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Company, 1983) does for Scottish prisoners taken after the uprisings of 1715 and 1745 what Peter W. Coldham's books have done for English convict settlers. Dobson has brought to light the transportation of over 3000 Scottish immigrants by going through Scottish legal and prison records. Many of the entries give the names of the parents or specific place of origin of the transportee.

These are by no means all of the available sources, but they will be helpful both for the information they present and the clues they give to other sources for the researcher.

Passenger List of Convicts

The editor came across this list of transported felons in a volume of Baltimore County land records: Liber IS # G, p. 34. It is a list of servants convicted of crimes in the City of Exon, sentenced to seven years, and transported on the Ship Reformation, Philip Weare Commander, and sworn to by Capt. Philip Weare before Lance Todd on 4 August 1722.

Lux, John; robbery
Camp, William; house robbing

James, John; robbing his landlady
Gater, Wm.; horse stealing

(Passenger List of Convicts, continued)

Camp, Thomas; house robbing Hill, Thomas; stealing a bag of small things
Berriman, William; forcing a maid
Griffith, Sarah; stealing two handkerchiefs

Brisk, John; stealing a coat
Commings, Mich.; stealing wine
Whyett, Martha; shocking a maid(?)
Quick, Elizabeth; stealing bed clothes

President's Report

At a meeting of the Executive Board, the President and Officers of the Society on behalf of the members gave to former President Thomas Hollowak a copy of The Hammond-Harwood House Atlas of Historical Maps of Maryland, 1608-1908, by Edward C. Papenfuse and Joseph M. Coale, III.

The Board decided to recognize Mary K. Meyer's many years of service to the Maryland Historical Society and to genealogists by presenting her with a copy of resolutions thanking her for all her endeavors in genealogy and by giving her a two year membership in the Society.

This issue of the Notebook marks the first time a run of 200 copies has been printed. With a membership of over 100 members we will have to run at least 200 copies for the foreseeable future. It is hoped that part of one page will be devoted to paid advertisements from professional genealogists, people with books to sell, and perhaps queries from non-members of the Society. The paid advertisements will help to defray the cost of printing.

The picnic was a huge success, thanks largely to the efforts of Peggy Keigler who organized the event, and the perseverance of the 25 people who came (some from the Harford County Genealogical Society) on one of the hottest days of the summer. By 6:00 the whole cemetery was copied.

Book Reviews

Polish Directory for the City of Chicago, Reprinted with a New Introduction by Thomas L. Hollowak, published by the Polish Genealogical Society, 984 North Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, 60622. 39 pp. Price: $3.00.

This volume could well serve as a model for anyone planning to publish a similar work for any other city. The directory was originally published in the Daily News of Chicago on 18 December 1903. To the original listing has been added the addresses of Roman Catholic parishes. The names of the Polish inhabitants of Chicago are listed under their occupational heading, with their address.

Thomas L. Hollowak, Index to the Obituaries and Death Notices Appearing in The Jednosc--Polonia, 1926 - 1946, Chicago: The Polish Genealogical Society (address as above), 1983. ix, 162 pp. Indexed. Price: $7.95.

This listing of obituaries from the earliest extant Polish newspaper in Baltimore will be of great help to anyone doing Polish research. The Introduction explains the arrangement of the book, a history of the newspaper, locations of the originals, and acknowledgements. Entries in the text contain the name of the deceased, date of death, age, and names of other relatives, as well as the date of the issue in which the notice appeared. The book contains a section on genealogical research in Baltimore's Polish community. Names of Polish churches, cemeteries, and funeral homes are given. The book is a must for genealogical collections dealing with Baltimore, and/or Polish genealogical sources. Copies can be ordered from the Polish Genealogical Society, whose address is in the previous review.

Mary K. Meyer, Genealogical Research in Maryland: A Guide; Revised and Enlarged (Baltimore: The Maryland Historical Society, 1983), 45 pp. Price: $8.00 plus $1.50 for postage and handling. Maryland residents should add 40% sales tax.

The third edition of Mary K. Meyer's Guide contains several new features. The book is set in double columns so that more information can be included. Updated information on state and local historical and genealogical societies has been included, and there are sections on the various record repositories. Chapters include: The Counties of Maryland, the Maryland Historical Society, Vital Records, Ships' Passenger Lists, Tax Lists, and Special Finding Aids. There is a bibliography and a list of book distributors. The reviewer was pleased to see that many public libraries are now building collections of genealogy and/or Marylandiana. When the 2nd edition was published in 1976 Baltimore City and County had 16 items listed in the bibliography; the present bibliography has 24. Harford County had 3 items and now has 10.

This issue of the Bulletin is rather brief, but enclosed with this mailing is the latest listing of library holdings of the Society, compiled by our Librarian, Pat Czerniewski.

Mark these dates on your calendar: July 12, 13, 14, 1984. A Mid-Atlantic Genealogical Conference will be held at the Hilton Hotel, Reisterstown Road and the Beltway, to commemorate the 350th anniversary of the founding of our state.

Because the fourth Sunday of December is the 25th, the Society will not meet that month. The officers of the society wish all the members a blessed Yuletide Season and a happy and prosperous New Year.

BIBLE RECORDS REPORTED

In the last issue of the Notebook we enclosed a form for registering Bible records in the possession of members. Many people were kind enough to enclose a copy of the Bible records along with the registration form. Here are the Bibles registered, with some pertinent facts. A copy of the registration form will be sent to the Genealogical Council of Maryland, but the transcriptions of records will remain with the BCGS (except in a few cases where members graciously sent two copies of the transcriptions). Thanks to those members who contributed to this project.

Book Notes

Family Line Publications, 13405 Collingwood Terrace, Silver Spring, Md., 20904, has been publishing several series of Maryland source records. The Maryland Militia, War of 1812 series now comprises five volumes covering: Eastern Shore, Baltimore County, Cecil and Harford Counties, Anne Arundel and Calvert Counties, and St. Marys and Charles Counties. Three of the five volumes not only contain muster rolls of troops, but abstracts of bounty land and pension applications.

Eastern Shore Newspaper Abstracts now runs to four volumes covering the years 1790-1824, and future volumes are planned.

The publisher has been reissuing the immensely valuable abstracts of Dorchester County, Maryland, originally published by James A. McAllister, Jr. Volumes A, B, and C contain fully indexed abstracts of Dorchester County land records for the years 1668 through 1745.

Maryland Eastern Shore Vital Records, in two volumes, for the years 1648-1725, and 1726-1750, contains records of births, deaths, and marriages from court and church records on the Eastern Shore

Two new publications may of particular interest to searchers for people in the Baltimore area. The first, by Walter E. Arps, Jr., is Maryland Mortalities, 1876-1915 from the Baltimore Sun Almanac, 256 pages, entries arranged alphabetically. $17.00 postpaid. Each year the Baltimore Sun Almanac published a list of the noteworthy people whose deaths were reported in the Sunpapers the previous year. Of course not every death notice in the Sun was indexed in the Almanac. Mr. Arps has performed a valuable service by bringing together all the names of obituaries, and arranging them in one listing. In addition to the name a typical entry may give the age, residence, occupation, and date the obituary was originally published. One page lists the following occupations: teacher, explorer, dancing master, civil engineer, merchant, photographer, art collector, and contractor. The book is well worth the price.

The second volume is a new edition of the Baltimore Town and Fell's Point Directory of 1796, from the original and Thompson and Walker. The entries show the name of the resident, occupation, and address. As a source book for students of early Baltimore history, families, or sociology, it is a very helpful addition. The editor of this Notebook contributed a supplement to the volume: i.e., the names of all those persons naturalized in Baltimore County Court from 1796 to 1803, taken from the Baltimore County Naturalization Docket at the Hall of Records. The names are arranged chronologically, and show the name of the new citizen, the country from which he came, and the date of the naturalization. There is an index to the names of those naturalized. The 69 pages are $8.00 postpaid. Maryland residents must add 5% sales tax.

New Libraries Opened

Two new genealogical libraries have opened at local stakes of the Mormon Church. One is at the Columbia, Maryland, Stake, 4100 St. Johns Lane, P. O. Box 397, Ellicott City, Md., 21043 (301-465-1642). The hours are: 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m., Mon., Tues., Wed., and Saturday, and 7:00 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., Tues., Wed., and Thurs. (except for the 2nd Wed. evening each month).

The other library is at the Towson stake, Dulaney Valley Road and Seminary Avenue. This library is open 7:00 to 10:00 p.m., Tuesday, 10:00 to 4:00 and 7:00 to 10:00 on Wednesday, and 10:00 to 4:00 on the 1st and 3rd Saturday.

Most Mormon branch genealogical libraries are closed on National Holidays and on days when local schools are closed due to inclement weather. The libraries are open to all genealogists, and there is no charge for use of the facilities, although there is a minimal fee for rental of microfilm. The libraries may not solicit contributions but they are welcome.

The two most obvious resources at all Mormon libraries are the International Genealogical Index and the ability to order microfilms from Salt Lake City. The current edition of the International Genealogical Index is a set of microfiche having data on over 70 million names. A new edition is due out at the end of the year with over 80 million names on it. The libraries have catalogs of the holdings of Salt Lake City to assist in ordering microfilms.

Requests submitted on any other forms will not be accepted for processing. A new payment policy will be in effect. It will no longer be necessary to pay for the copies of records in advance. Send in the request on form 80 and/or 81. NARS will research the request, prepare copies of any records located, and send a bill to the researcher. Copies will be held for 30 days or until payment is received, whichever is sooner. You must complete a separate NATF Form 80 for each file (pension or bounty land or compiled military service) required. Copies of the new forms may be obtained after April 1 by writing to: Reference Services Branch (NNIR), National Archives and Records Service, 8th and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D. Evelyn Pearce

The Baltimore County Genealogical Society expresses sincere sympathy to the family of Evelyn Pearce, on the loss of their wife, mother, and grandmother. Evelyn was President of the Society from 1981 - 1982. During her tenure the Society became incorporated, obtained a post office mailing address and a tax-exempt number, and adopted the logo which appears on our stationery. This writer remembers her as a warm and outgoing human being, and wants her family to know we shall miss her.

The Society is Moving to a New Meeting Place

Since its inception the Society has met in the Baltimore County Public Library in Towson. During that time, we have accumulated more and more books and papers, and we have not had a permanent place in which to keep these records. Beginning with the September 1984 meeting the Society will be meeting in the Fellowship Hall of the Perry Hall United Presbyterian Church, Joppa and Bel Air Roads. We will have the use of a locked bookcase for our valuables, and if the time comes when we can acquire a filing cabinet, we will be able to keep that at the Church also. Although the church is not in the central part of the County, the longer driving distance for some people will be offset by the fact that we do have a place to keep our papers, and there is adequate off street parking on the church parking lot.

NOTE - The Seminar, scheduled for October, will still be held at the Towson Library.

Coming Events

Saturday, June 23 - Second Annual Picnic and Cemetery Copying Day at the Mount Olive Methodist Church, Liberty and Old Court Roads. Details are given in the enclosed meeting notice.

July 12, 13, and 14 - Genealogical Seminar at the Hilton Hotel, Reisterstown Road and the Beltway. Contact Mary K. Meyer, 8768 C. Town and Country Boulevard, Ellicott City, Md., 21043, or Edna Kanely, 3210 Chesterfield Avenue, Baltimore, Md., 21213, for details.

September: 4th Sunday - 1st Fall Meeting at our new meeting place, topic of meeting to be announced.

October, 4th Saturday: Seminar, at the Towson Public Library, Tentative Theme: What to do with all these notes you've gathered.

New Books

Clark, Raymond B., Jr., and Donald Odell Virdin, Maryland Genealogies, c.r. 1984. 42 pp. $9.00.

Virdin, Donald Odell, Delaware Genealogies, c.r. 1984. 22 pp. $5.00.

Both books contain lists of published books dealing with genealogies of Maryland or Delaware Families. Books are arranged under the name of the major family discussed, with the author, title, place and date of publication, and number of pages. For books dealing with more than one family there is an index of family names. The volume of Maryland families includes a list of Family Newsletters and a list of collected genealogies. Mr. Clark is well known for his publication of The Maryland and Delaware Genealogist, and is well known to members of the Baltimore County Genealogical Society. The two books do not claim to be complete listings but should be of interest.

William G. Lefurgy, The Records of a City: A Guide to the Baltimore City Archives (City of Baltimore, Dept. of Legislative Reference; City Archives and Records Management Office, Baltimore, 1984). 109 pp. $10.00.

As the title suggests, this book catalogs the holdings of the Baltimore City Archives. 61 record groups and 9 manuscript collections are discussed. The entry RG 4 Property Tax Records, 1798 to Present, gives a history of the type of record, a summary of the records, with references to related record groups, data on any published materials, and the series of various types of records. Under health department records, RG-19, is a note about two new name indexes: coroner inquest reports, 1827-1867, and interment records, 1834-1840. The latter records were partially copied and typed by the late William N. Wilkins, but now a complete name index has been prepared. This book is a must for anyone interested in Baltimore City Records.

Mary Ellen Hayward and R. Kent Lancaster, A Guide to the Markers and Burials (of Westminster Presbyterian Cemetery) (Baltimore: Westminster Preservation Trust: 1984). 63 pp. Indexed.

This book, made possible by a grant from the Maryland Humanities Council contains a detailed history of the Westminster Church and Burial Ground, and a catalog of all known information about the surviving tombstones and those who are known to be buried there. This reviewer had the pleasure of working with Drs. Hayward and Lancaster in preparing for a series of lectures given this spring, and feels that the book (whose price seems to be a well kept secret, even from the authors) is a worthy addition to the literature of cemeteries. Copies may be ordered from the Westminster Preservation Trust, 500 West Baltimore Street, Baltimore, Md. If you are interested in Baltimore families, Presbyterians, or graveyards as cultural phenomena you will want to have this book.

Newspapers Indexed

In December 1983 the Hall of Records sponsored a seminar on the use of newspapers by historians and genealogists, and the program now under way to locate and preserve (on microfilm) many old newspapers.

The Baltimore County Public Library in Towson has acquired microfilm copies of extant copies of the Baltimore County Advocate from 1850 to 1864 (with gaps). The editor of the Notebook has indexed the marriages and deaths from the Advocate, with a view to eventual publishing. In the meantime, persons interested in specific families may obtain a list of the names of persons of that name who were married or who died, and the date of the paper containing the account. Armed with this information, the person may visit the Baltimore County Public Library to obtain a full copy of the item from the paper.

Please send a SASE for each surname of interest to the editor of the Notebook. Out of town members can obtain the full item for a slight fee. Send SASE and name of family searching to Robert Barnes, 9219 Snyder Lane, Perry Hall, Maryland, 21128.

Summer at the Libraries!

The Hall of Records has to close for one hour on Saturdays from 12:00 to 1:00 so the staff can go to lunch. If you are going to Annapolis on a Saturday plan to eat your lunch at that time, and stroll around the town. The Hall of Records offers Orientation Tours at 10:30. The staff although overworked is always pleasant, knowledgeable, and helpful.

The Peabody Library in Baltimore is now closed on Saturdays until September. To serve you better, there is now a book where researchers may register their surnames of interest so that others may contact them.

The Peabody Library will lose two staff members due to retirement, and will lose Tom Hollowak for the summer. Tom is going to Poland for a few weeks. Bon voyage, Tom!

CHANGES

This issue of The Notebook marks several changes in the life of the Society. First of all, starting with the September meeting we will be meeting at the Perry Hall United Presbyterian Church, located at the angle of Joppa and Belair Roads. Here we will have a place to keep our books and papers, and while we are not as centrally located as in Towson, we hope that members will find the new meeting place desirable.

A second change occurs in this notebook itself. For the first time we are accepting paid advertisements. BCGS Member Frank Cornelison wrote to a number of professional genealogists and publishers and solicited advertisements. While the initial response was small we hope that more professionals will avail themselves of our services. The funds raised can be used to offset the expense of printing The Notebook.

Finally, the feature article begun in this issue will be continued in the next issue. (As always your editor welcomes contributions for publication of any length).

BIBLIOGRAPHIES, HANDOUTS, AND LISTS

All the textbooks agree that one of the first things a researcher has to do when starting a new problem is to survey the literature to see what has already been done on a particular family or perhaps to see what records for an area have been published. One of the best ways to do this is to consult publishers' catalogs, and published bibliographies and archival guides. Publishers like Genealogical Publishing Company, Family Line Publications, Southern Historical Press and others publish catalogs that let you know what you can obtain from their sales desks.

Archival and library guides detail what will be found in a particular repository, and will be the subject of the next article in The Notebook.

Bibliographies --lists of books, primary sources, and articles found in a variety of libraries--can be divided into two types: major published bibliographies, and smaller handouts and lists prepared by speakers for the use of their audiences.

The major bibliographies are well known to most genealogists, so will be mentioned only briefly in this article. They include: Filby, P. W., American and British Genealogy and Heraldry, 3rd ed. pub. by the New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Society.

Filby, P. W., Bibliography of Passenger Lists (Gale).

Genealogical Periodical Annual Index (published by a variety of compilers).

Jacobus, Index to Genealogical Periodicals, 3 vols. (Gen. Pub. Co.).

The idea for compiling a bibliography of bibliographies developed after attending the Mid-Atlantic Genealogical Conference held this July at the Pikesville Hilton. A number of speakers, especially Peter Craig, Eva Slezak, and Helen Harriss, prepared such fine bibliographies to go with their talks that it was felt that a listing of such research aids would be helpful. This listing includes a number of bibliographies prepared from time to time by this editor, the speakers mentioned above, and also some very helpful bibliographies that have been published from time to time in The Notebook, the Maryland Historical Magazine, and the Bulletin of the Maryland Genealogical Society. In some cases, the compiler's address is given so that interested persons can write for a copy of the bibliography if they wish.

CORRECTIONS

Wm. A. Jenkins writes to point out two discrepancies in the Article on the "Calvert Descent," in The Notebook, no. 24, p. 3.

- 1) In Gen. 1, Leonard Calvert was born c. 1550, and not 1660.
- 2) In Gen. 2, Lady Ann Mynne was married 22 Nov., 1604, and died 12 August 1622.

EXPANSION

Beginning in this bulletin we are reprinting abstracts of early Baltimore County Land Records. This information, originally published in the Maryland Historical Magazine, is offered here to help our members locate their earliest ancestors.

This issue also contains a form for members to use in submitting their surnames. We are planning to produce a computerized surname index, and out of town members can request news of anyone working on a surname merely by sending a SASE after the list is completed. We hope all members will submit the names they are working on.

CATHOLIC CHURCHES IN THE BALTIMORE AREA, 1850

by Edna Agatha Kanely

In 1850 the following Catholic Churches were located in Baltimore City: The Cathedral, St. Patrick's, St. Alphonsus, St. James, St. Joseph's, St. Vincent's, and St. Peter's. St. Mary's at Govanstown was dedicated on September 23. Surrounding county churches were at Bohemia, Conowingo, Deer Creek, Havre de Grace, Long Green, St. Charles in Pikesville, and St. Joseph's at Fullerton.

People came to St. Mary's in Govanstown from the area surrounding Mt. Washington, where the old copper mines at Bare Hills were operating; from Texas, where the marble quarries were being worked and lime burning was a major industry; from Towson; from what is now the Hamilton area; from what is now Waverly; and from Woodberry and Hampden were the cotton mills and the old city water works were located.

Murphy's Baltimore Directory for 1845 listed the following Catholic churches and their locations: THE CATHEDRAL, corner of Mulberry and Cathedral; ST. PATRICK'S, corner Broadway and Bank; ST. ALPHONSUS (German), corner Park and Saratoga; ST. JAMES (German), Aisquith, north of Madison; ST. JOSEPH'S, corner Barre and Howard; ST. VINCENT DE PAUL, Front, north of Pitt; ST. PETER'S, corner Poppleton and Hollins; ST. MARY'S CHAPEL, attached to the Seminary; CARMELITE CHAPEL, Aisquith, near Orleans; CHAPEL OF THE CONVENT OF THE VISITATION, corner Park and Centre; ST. FRANCES' CHAPEL, Richmond near Howard.

LATHERING OF THE LATE LAMENTED
(A Method for Gravestone Photography)

by Harold Everett and Sid Russell

(The following article was published in the August 1984 issue of The Essex Genealogist, whose editor, Mrs. Marcia Wiswall, has kindly given permission for the article to be reprinted - Ed.)

Gravestone rubbings have long been recognized as an art form but are not easily filed away for quick and easy reference. Gravestone photography, however, lends itself more nearly to the genealogical requirement. Modern day cemetery markers are usually carved from marble or granite and make excellent photo copies. However, seventeenth and eighteenth century stones were mostly carved from very dark gray or black slate, and pictures taken of them have insufficient contrast to produce legible prints. To overcome this difficulty, two techniques are commonly employed; the engraved letters are filled with white chalk, or the finished print may be marked over with white ink. Both procedures are long and arduous.

To correct the contrast deficiency, we have developed a method which we believe to be unique as well as very easy to use. Our basic ingredient, of all things, is an aerosol can of shaving cream.

We first clean the stone using a putty knife, a coarse brush, and a damp rag. Then, with an old shaving brush, we lather the face of the stone completely, making sure that every engraved indentation is filled or covered. Next we run a small squeegee across the surface removing most of the unwanted shaving cream, but leaving the indentures untouched. A second stroke with a piece of cloth leaves the surface clean and ready to photograph. Clean-up is easy. We dribble water over the stone, and with a two-inch paintbrush clean out the carved letters and ornamentalions, leaving the stone in original but cleaner condition. Preparation takes ten minutes, the cleanup only five.

Many of these early stone contain such genealogical information as in the example (pictured in the original article). Henry was the father of Samuel Sewall, the colonial diarist, and he appears in hundreds of Essex County pedigrees. Our before and after photographs show the difference and demonstrate the decided benefit that may be gained by working a gravestone up into a lather!

(The tombstone illustrated in the picture reads: "Mr. Henry Sewall (Sent By/Mr. Henry Sewall, His Father/ in ye ship Elizabeth & Dorcas/ Capt. Watts Commander)? arrived at Boston, 1634/ wintered at Ipswich, helped/begin this Plantation, 1635/furnishing English servants/neat cattle, & provisions/, married ...Jane Sumner,/March ye 25, 1646/ died May ye 16, 1700/aetat 86/ His fruitful vine being thus disjoined/ fell to ye ground January/ ye 13 following aetat 72/ Psal. 27:10")

REVIEWS

THE SOURCE, ed. by Arlene Eakle and Johni Cerny. Ancestry Publishing Co., Salt Lake City, Utah, 1984. 786 pp. $39.95. indexed. Order from Ancestry, Inc., P. O. Box 476, Salt Lake City, Utah, 84110-9990.

This book is one of the completest, most helpful manuals for genealogical research this reviewer has seen. The work of numerous editors, The Source contains 22 chapters and 10 sections in the appendix, covering such topics not found in other manuals such as institutional records, business and employment records, city directories, compiled biographies, sources for Urban Ancestors, and chapters dealing with ethnic genealogy (Native American, Spanish and Mexican, Blacks, Asian Americans, Jewish), as well as appendices listing regional federal archives and records centers, selected research libraries, and genealogical book publishers.

One of the most helpful features of this book is the attention devoted to bibliographies, which contain not only published books, but periodical literature as well. So up to date are these bibliographies, that P. William Filby, who wrote the Foreword, noted several entries from December 1983.

Another helpful feature is the information guide and "Could You Use This Chapter?" found at the beginning of this chapter. These two sections tell you whether this particular chapter will help you find information on a number of subjects.

This book is a must for any genealogical society and library to own, and for any genealogist who takes his research seriously.

The publishers of The Source also offer membership in the Ancestry Research Club. Annual dues are $24.95 for a short time, and then will rise, but a number of attractive offers make the price cost efficient.

BALTIMORE DIRECTORY OF 1844, CONTAINING THENNAMES, OCCUPATIONS AND PLACES OF ABODE OF THE CITIZENS, compiled by Holly G. Wright. Silver Spring: Family Line Publications, c.r. 1984. 55 pp. $7.00

WILMINGTON DELAWARE DIRECTORY OF 1814. Silver Spring: Family Line Publications, n.d. 27 pp. $5.00.

Both of these books will be invaluable to researchers in the Baltimore or Wilmington areas as city directories are full of information about the inhabitants of urban areas. This reviewer is pleased to note that the Wilmington directory contains the appendices found in the original--lists of clergy, physicians, magistrates, conveyancers and surveyors, etc. If the publisher continues his series of Baltimore Directories, they will be enhanced by the supplementary material found in later issues also.

Highly recommended for genealogists, local history buffs, and genealogical societies and libraries. Copied may be ordered from Family Line Publications, 13405 Collingwood Terrace, Silver Spring, Md., 20904.

WORTHINGTON DESCENDANTS. Edited by Bette Brangle-Poole and Frances Epler Brangle 6619 Pheasant Road, Rte # 16, Baltimore, Md., 21220. Published quarterly. (Price not stated on this issue).

Family newsletters can be an excellent source of material and this one, now in its 3rd volume, contains source materials, notes from books, queries, and reprints of pertinent newspaper articles. This reviewer has one suggestion: when material is taken from published sources, the complete bibliographic citation should be given.

REGISTRATION FORM FOR COMPUTERIZED SURNAME INDEX

Fill this form out and return it to the editor, Robert Barnes, 9219 Snyder Lane, Perry Hall, Md., 21128, no later than December 15. After the holidays it will sent to a computer expert who will reproduce an alphabetized surname index for the Society. You may use more than one form if you wish.

Baltimore County Land Records, 1661 - 1665

abst. by Louis Dow Scisco

Beginning in this issue of the Notebook, we begin a separately paged supplement of abstracts of the first twenty-seven years of Baltimore County land records, compiled by the late Louis Dow Scisco, and published in the Maryland Historical Magazine from 1929 to 1941. Scisco's introductory remarks have been included, and for purposes of this reprinting, each item has been numbered so that eventually an index can be compiled both of names of individuals and of tracts. This first instalment appeared in the Magazine, 24 (June, 1929), 151-156. (ED).

The first two record books of Baltimore County are probably non-existent. One may not be too certain of it, for there is (Mr. Scisco wrote in 1929) a storage room in the court house that is piled high with masses of old records....

The County of Baltimore was created probably by a proclamation in December, 1659, from Governor Fendall, following his own precedent in creating Charles County by proclamation in 1658. There is nothing in the council register in the way of record of the act creating the county. It is recorded that on December 12, 1659, the governor and council ordered election writs sent to the several counties for representatives in the coming general assembly, and that when these writs were issued on January 12, 1660, one of them went to Baltimore County, then mentioned for the first time. Organization of the new county took place, presumably, in January of February 1660, for an election was held and the county burgesses appeared in the general assembly on February 28, 1660.

From February, 1660, to June, 1661, there are occasional entries in the provincial records showing that the county court and officials were duly functioning. Necessarily there was a record book of court proceedings for the period, but of this first county book no known trace now exists.... Governor Fendall, creator of the county, allied himself with the colonial party that sought to throw off proprietary rule, and was swept out of office when the proprietor's authority was restored late in 1660. On June 16, 1661, Governor Philip Calvert issued a new commission to the Baltimore County Court, which reorganized thereunder on July 20, 1661, with John Collett as clerk.

With the session of the new court was begun a new record book which, although it has disappeared, is known today by a series of excerpts from it which were copied in 1729 from the original book and now occupy pages 1 to 13 of an existing book (designated as Liber) R.M. no. H. S. The copyists of 1729 were thoughtful enough to append to each excerpt the title of the original book and the folio from which the excerpt was taken. From these notations it appears that the book was called Liber OLL... (which must be) of slight thickness, for the copyists made no excerpts after its folio 61. In the original record book were the court minutes from July 1661, to September 1665. The copyists were concerned only with entries that related to land ownership. Of court orders and trials they preserved nothing. Three of the introductory headings of session minutes were copied and aid in fixing the chronology of the excerpts, but the actual dates of some of the entries are very uncertain. The following summary contains all of the names and dates therein. Figures in parentheses at the close of each item indicate the pages of the original Liber OLL. Words in brackets are supplied by (Scisco).

ARCHIVES OF THE AMERICAN LUTHERAN CHURCH

submitted by Edna Agatha Kanely

Genealogists seeking data on ancestors of German, Danish, or Norwegian ancestry may find helpful information in the records of baptisms, confirmations, marriages, and funerals kept by Lutheran congregations. The Archives of the American Lutheran Church contain microfilm records of about 3000 American Lutheran Congregations. These represent about one half of the Congregations which comprise the American Lutheran Church.

If you wish to use these records follow these four steps:

- 1) Make sure the records you want are on microfilm at the Archives of the ALC.
- 2) Secure permission in writing from the congregation in question. If the congregation has merged with another the Archives can tell you what congregation has custody of the records. If the Congregation has dissolved the Archives can give you permission to use the film.
- 3) Send a check, made out to "Archives, the ALC," for $5.00 for each roll you wish to use.
- 4) The microfilm will be sent to you for two months; if no one else has requested that roll you may keep it another two months for payment of another $5.00. Return the microfilm to the address given below.

GREEN LAND COMMISSION, 1803

by Lillian Bayly Marks

Land Commissions were created by county courts to redefine property boundaries, lost due to the disappearance of the original survey markers. Composed of several prominent citizens, the commission was directed to obtain testimony from local inhabitants familiar with the land concerned. The testimony frequently gave ages, relationships, and other relevant facts about area residents.

On 13 December 1802 Isaac Green, mill owner, petitioned the Baltimore County Court for a commission to reestablish the boundaries of his land Come By Chance. The commission was made up of Daniel Bowley, James Ogleby, James Baker, John Partridge, and Robert Porter. The following persons deposed: (April 1803)

JOB GARRETTSON, age 67, stated he "ran the tract" for Joseph Insor some 40 years ago, mentioned Nicholas Merryman and Thomas Boon.

SAMUEL MERRYMAN, age 81

GEORGE CHILDS, age 70, stated he carried the chain for Moses Barney, the Surveyor

MARTICO MERRYMAN, age 50, stated that 22 years ago Samuel Merryman son of Nicholas told him about a pile of rocks.

CALEB MERRYMAN, age 45, mentioned Henry Hart, surveyor, some 20 years ago.

DAVID SMITHSON, age 40, mentioned Elisha Tyson

ISAAC SCOTT, age 28.

Green Land Commission, 1803, cont'd.

On 2 May 1803 the commission appointed John Bouldin, surveyor, to make a resurvey and establish the courses of the tract. Arthur Smith and Osburn Griffith were chain carriers and Benjamin Childs was poleman.

The commission met again on 7 October 1803, and CORNELIUS HOWARD, aged 48, testified as to the location of the lines of the tract. New metes and bounds were certified, and on 10 November the report was filed in deed form. The deed was entered in the land records on 31 December 1803.

William T. Skipper, a new member of the BCGS, has sent us a photocopy and transcription of a pay roll of Capt. John Williams' Company of Infantry stationed at Kaskaskias under command of Col. George Rogers Clark. The pay roll covers the period from 12 July 1778 to 31 May 1779. The original roll was obtained from the Filson Club Library, 118 West Breckemridge St., Louisville, Ky., 40217. The names are listed here because so many of them seem to evoke a possible Maryland connection.

BOOK REVIEW

by W. R. Lynch

GENERATIONS: AN AMERICAN FAMILY, by John Egerton (University of Kentucky Press, 1983).

Many genealogical how-to books advise beginners to interview first some of their older relatives in order to establish a framework for further research. Few who have tried this have had such good fortune as the author of this book, who, although not researching his own family, found a patriarch who had known seven generations of his family. Not only had he and his wife always been interested in the relationships and history of both their families, but their memories accommodated an astonishing amount of such information, most of which could be verified by the author's research.

This is the story of Burnam Ledford of Lancaster, Ky., and his wife Addie King Ledford, aged 101 and 93 respectively and married 74 years when the author met them. Their forebears had come to Kentucky in 1808. The book is much more than a mere genealogy, but it contains much of interest for genealogists.

Some researchers have worried that they might be on a wrong track when they picked up the same surname on both sides of the family. This is not necessarily an error, nor is it unique: Burnam Ledford's great-grandfather Aley Ledford, had a son John, who was also Burnam's great-grandfather on his mother's side...

Those who have had some trouble locating records of Kentucky ancestors should remember that although Kentucky has been a state since 1792 the area was so little developed that sometimes the closest court house for obtaining marriage licenses, or registering wills, was in Virginia.

Egerton has attempted to construct a representative American social history from the patterns of change and continuity that emerged in the generations of a single middle-class family," and with the help of the Ledfords and their family, has produced a fascinating book. It should give every reader a heightened awareness of the treasures that waste away in the minds and memories of the elderly. It is well for us to be reminded that the greatest gift the elderly have to offer--their vision of the past--is too often unappreciated, neglected, and ignored.

EDITOR'S CORNER

At long last the editor is able to say a few words on his own behalf. For the first time in the history of the Notebook  $3\frac{1}{2}$  pages of the contents were submitted by members of the Society, and the editor appreciates every item that was submitted.

Dates to remember: February 9, March 9, and May 18, a series of workshops on using the Peabody Collection of the Eisenhower Library (also formerly known as the Peabody Library). These are free and open to the public, but advance registration is requested in order to allow seating. See the notice in the meeting notices.

Congratulations and Best Wishes to: Marjorie Winslow, new reference assistant at the Peabody; to Francis O'Neal, reference librarian at the Maryland Historical Society, and to Thomas Hollowak, who is now an archivist at the Baltimore Records Center.

BALTIMORE COUNTY LAND RECORDS OF 1665 - 1667

abst. by Louis Dow Scisco

The next installment of land records abstracted by Mr. Scisco was published in the Maryland Historical Magazine, vol. 24 (Dec. 1929), pp. 342 - 348. Scisco describes Baltimore County at this time as a portion of the great colonial frontier. Such a settlement as there was lay along the tidal rivers and creeks of the upper Bay. To the east and west were the half friendly Indians of the Eastern Shore and the Piscataway. To the north were the Susquehannas, and beyond them the Iroquois, who sometimes raided the county. Immigration into the region was still small, but the stream was increasing. The most obvious means of livelihood was tobacco growing, but a smaller number lived by logging, carpentry, and cooperage, and there was a storekeeper or two, and at least one physician.

The location of the original records is not known. In their place are two groups of transcripts in which are preserved such portions of the original records as relate to land. The clerks who made the transcripts disregarded the court proceedings and other papers. The summaries given below include all those entries placed on record from September 1665 to the end of 1667. The first group of items come from pp. 1-28 of Liber IS#IK, made about 1717 by John Stokes. Stokes copied material from several older record books, but appended to each item the folio numbers of the original liber. One of the books copied was Liber IC # A, which seems to have held the original court proceedings.

VITAL STATISTICS FOR SOME BALTIMORE COUNTY FAMILIES, 1720-1825

abst. by William R. Lynch

These extracts are taken from a ledger kept by Charles Jessop, 1759-1828, of Vauxhall, near Ashland, Baltimore County. Jessop was a miller; in addition to recording events in his own life he kept accounts of "Maridg and Burth" and "Deth or Mortality" concerning many of his neighbors. These items are here arranged into one alphabetical listing. The original spelling has been retained and in many cases birth dates have been inferred from Jessop's estimate of age at death. The statistics, with some of Jessop's pungent personal comments, were originally published in History Trails, Vol. 11, No. 1, Autumn 1976, pub. by the Baltimore County Historical Society, which has graciously given permission to Mr. Lynch to republish them here.

EDITORIAL

My two years as President of the Baltimore County Genealogical Society are almost up. I have enjoyed them, and I greet their end with a sigh (and a sigh of relief). The job has been made enjoyable by the great assistance of the other members of the Executive Board, the committee members who have planned field trips, seminars, and picnics, and of course by all the members of the Society, who have been so supportive.

We have acquired a permanent headquarters (which we may soon outgrow), increased the size of The Notebook, and our membership, and added to our Library Collection, both with books, and a rapidly growing vertical file. We have produced our first computerized surname index, which is already proving invaluable in putting researchers in touch with each other.

We have lost some members. Carroll and Evelyn Pearce, and Joe Cromwell were members of the Society from its inception, and we will miss them.

Unlike Edward VIII, whose abdication speech signalled the beginning of a lifelong exile, I bid farewell as President but looking forward to continuing as Editor, and as "vertical file curator." I thank you all for your help and support. I know Jean Brandau, the new President, and the next executive board will receive the same support from you. Thank you and God bless.

THE COMPUTERIZED SURNAME INDEX can help you find others working on the same lines or researching in similar areas. Local members can see the Society's copy on our meeting dates. Out of town members can send a SASE to the Editor (9219 Snyder Lane, Perry Hall, Md., 21128) and he will check his copy for the names of others working on the same families, and he will gladly check some of his other surname lists at the same time. Members who have many Baltimore County lines might want to purchase a copy of the members' names and addresses who submitted entries, the surname list, and the listing by locality from Susan Johnston, 104 Park Drive, Catonsville, Md., 21228, for $10.00 which includes postage).

BALTIMORE COUNTY LAND RECORDS OF 1668 AND 1669.

abst. by Louis Dow Scisco

This section of land records was originally published in the Maryland Historical Magazine, vol. 25 (1930), pp. 255-262. Scisco points out that the growing number of transfers might imply a growth in immigration. It is clear that purchasers of land were still seeking sites along the water fronts of the upper Chesapeake, indicating that travel was still mostly by boat rather than by such forest trails as existed.

The next group of deeds were in pp. 62-77 of Liber I.R. no. P.P., a copy made in 1892 from an earlier book of the same name whose contents were taken in part from a still earlier book called H.W. no. A.B. The repeated copying have resulted in distortions of names which are given here as they stand.

NORWOOD CEMETERY

In Baltimore County at Relay, on the Calvert Distilling Company grounds, is a small cemetery surrounded by a stone wall and carefully maintained. The graves are very old, going back to beginning of the 19th century. Dates and names on some of the tombstones are difficult to read. We tried to verify each by looking up obituaries in Baltimore newspapers and at the Maryland Historical Society Library. Any information we found is shown with the tombstone inscriptions chronologically arranged:

- 1801 - December 21 - Sally Norwood - 42 years
"NORWOOD, Mrs. Sally, wife of Col. Edward Norwood of Elk Ridge died yesterday, aged 42, leaving a husband and many children." Baltimore Federal Gazette - December 22, 1801.
- 1814 - March 8 - Joshua Trimble - 16 years (this may be 10 years)
- 1815 - January 9 - Sally O'dell Norwood, youngest dau of E.N. - 16 years
"NORWOOD, Miss Sally O'dell, youngest daughter of Col. Edward Norwood, of Baltimore County, died 9 January." Baltimore American - January 16, 1815.
- 1815 - October 25 - Edward Norwood - Patriot
"NORWOOD, Col. Edward, died 25 October 1815 at Elk Ridge, at an advanced age - Revolutionary Patriot." Patriot October 27, 1815; Baltimore American - October 28, 1815.
"Capt. Md. Battalion of the Flying Camp, July to December 1776; Capt. 4th Md., 10 Dec. 1776, dismissed 30 Sept. 1778." Heitman

"On the 26th inst. at 12½ am after a protracted illness sustained in exemplary patience and Christian fortitude, Dr. Thomas H. Wright, in the 68th year of his age. The members of the medical profession and his friends are respectfully invited to attend his funeral from his late residence on Friday morning, 28th inst., at 9 o'clock, without further notice." Baltimore American September 27, 1855.

THE SOCIETY'S LIBRARY IS GROWING

Since moving to our present location at the Perry Hall Presbyterian Church our library has grown rapidly. We have over 250 books, many periodicals, and a vertical file having more than 200 folders (the last have appeared just in the past year. Some of the ways our library has grown may suggest ways you can help.

CHARTS: Several of our members, including Henry A. Naylor, Jr., and Allen Virta, have made up charts of some of their family relationships, and given copies to the library. These charts need not be large. You can get a lot of information on an 8½ by 11 sheet.

DONATIONS OF BOOKS AND PERIODICALS: Several members have given books, and Mr. and Mrs. James Whitcraft have been especially generous in donating back issued of periodicals.

SEVEN GENERATION CHARTS: These were filled out by members several years ago. A former member kept them, indexed them, and has returned them to the Editor. They will be in place for members to consult at our October meeting.

DONATION OF PAPERS: Dr. Richard B. Miller of Pasadena has donated many folders on Baltimore County families, and Maryland families, as well as other materials to the editor, who is turning much of the material over to the Society. Dr. Miller has had to give up genealogical research for health reasons and we appreciate his generosity.

For questions about what is in the vertical file, send a SASE to the Editor.

BOOK REVIEWS

BALTIMORE CEMETERIES, VOLUME I: Collected by the Baltimore County Historical Society. c.r. 1985 by the Maryland Genealogical Society. 172 pp. Indexed

This is the first in a proposed series of volumes of Baltimore County Cemetery Inscriptions to be published by the Maryland Genealogical Society. It contains inscriptions from 61 family and church cemeteries in central and northern Baltimore County, copied by the Cemetery Committee of the Baltimore County Historical Society. A surname index adds to the usefulness of the work. The entries for each set of inscription include the name of the cemetery, its location, the inscriptions themselves, and the name(s) of those who copied the inscription, as well as the date copied. Although the book is recommended two words of caution: first, many of the inscriptions were copied more than ten years ago, and it may be that there have been some recent interments. Second, reading old tombstones is difficult. Numbers can be easily misinterpreted. The researcher should always make an effort to confirm dates of death from other sources. Nevertheless given the fact that tombstones can disappear, whether due to vandalism, developers, or erosion, the Maryland Genealogical Society has brought out a useful volume, and one that will soon be followed by others. Copies may be ordered from Family Line Publications, 13405 Collingwood Terrace, Silver Spring, Md., 20904.

A GUIDE TO GENEALOGICAL RESEARCH IN CARROLL COUNTY. By the Carroll County Genealogical Society. Westminster: Cranberry Graphics, 1985. 107 pp. Illustrated; indexed.

Any genealogical society planning to publish a guide to research in a given county would do well to study this guide. A number of authors, including this reviewer, were asked to write chapters on specific topics, and the book contains chapters on research facilities inside of Carroll County, outside the county, and the cartography, origins, towns, churches, cemeteries, and newspapers of the county. The chapter on towns tells what election district they were in in 1877, and what is the date of origin. The chapter on churches lists churches by denomination, gives the name of each church, location, date of establishment, and present address, as well as location of the records. There are a series of maps showing the location of individual cemeteries. The book is highly recommended for anyone doing research in that area. Copies may be ordered from the Carroll County Genealogical Society, c/o The Carroll County Public Library, 50 East Main Street, Westminster, Md., 21157.

REVOLUTIONARY PATRIOTS OF HARFORD COUNTY, MARYLAND, 1775-1783. By Henry C. Peden, Jr., M.A. Bel Air: Bel Air Copy Center, 1985. 250 pp. Indexed.

The compiler, who was Secretary of the Maryland Society, SAR, 1982-1984, has combed lists of signers of the Oath of Allegiance, militia lists, muster rolls, county histories, genealogical source materials, and records of the Hall of Records, DAR, and SAR, to produce what should be a very helpful reference volume on the revolutionary patriots of Harford County. Entries give the patriot's name, details of patriotic and/or military service, and references where the information was obtained. In some instances vital records and names of spouses are given. Over 3600 entries are contained in the book and there is a surname index. As might be expected, there are difficulties in separating individuals of the same name. There were many persons named William Smith and researchers will have to separate them. The book is highly recommended. Copies may be ordered from the author, 707 Bedford Road, Bel Air, Md., 21014, at $25.00 each.

BOOK REVIEWS

This year has seen the publication of a number of significant books for the genealogist. Many of them have come from the Genealogical Publishing Company, 1001 N. Calvert Street, Baltimore, Md., 21202. Maryland Residents should add 5 % sales tax, and postage and handling is $1.25 for the first book, and each additional book is $.50. Other new titles are from Family Line Publications, 13405 Collingwood Terrace, Silver Spring, Md., 20904. All prices include postage, but Maryland residents should add 5 % sales tax. Because of the number of titles to be reviewed the books are grouped by category.

ENGLISH RESEARCH

Cecil R. Humphery-Smith. A Genealogist's Bibliography. Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Company, 1985. 128 pp. The author is a widely experienced teacher of family history in Great Britain, and is Director of the Institute of Heraldic and Genealogical Studies in Canterbury, England. The bulk of the book is devoted to a county by county listing of record repositories and libraries, apprenticeship records, censuses, directories, episcopal registers, and records of clergy, family histories, feet of fines, heraldry, inquisitiones post mortem, manorial records, marriage licenses, members of Parliament, muster rolls, parochial and non-parochial registers, pedigrees, quarter sessions, subsidies, visitations, place names, and wills and administrations. In other words, if you want to know where records are, or what records have been published for a particular county, you must consult this book. There is also a glossary of English genealogical, legal, and feudal terminology. The book concludes with a bibliography, or several bibliographies of useful books and articles, journals, and guides to collections of manuscripts and printed manuscripts. It is well worth the price of $17.50.

Cecil Humphery-Smith, The Phillimore Atlas and Index of Parish Registers. Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Company, 1984. 281 pp. $50.00. The Atlas contains two maps for each of the English counties and some portions of Wales. The first map for each county is a very clear reproduction of topographical maps first published in James Bell's A New and Comprehensive Gazetteer of England and Wales published in 1834. The second map is a map showing the pre-1832 parishes in each county. The Bell maps are helpful because they show roads and rivers, giving clues to migration routes in the days before railroads. The second map shows the parish boundaries as they existed in 1832, with a color coded boundary indicating the ecclesiastical jurisdiction in which each parish lay. This latter is important because it was the ecclesiastical jurisdiction which determined the location of wills. Following the atlas section is a county by county listing of all parishes, with the location of records in various repositories, whether any entries have been put into the I.G.I., whether any copies of the registers are the Society of Genealogists, whether any of the marriages have been indexed, and finally the grid location of the parish on the maps. The introduction to the book contains a list of useful addresses. This book is a must for genealogical libraries, and for genealogists doing extensive English research.

FAMILY GENEALOGY

Deborah K. Small, Henry Fitch of Maryland. c.r. 1984. 163 pp.; indexed. $22.00. The author has crammed a great deal of information into a small book, but Fitch descendants will find much helpful data here. Deeds, wills, census records, land records, newspaper items, and county histories are among the sources used. Copies may be ordered from the author, Mrs. R. B. Small, Jr., living in Winter Park, Florida.

BOOK REVIEWS

GENERAL RESEARCH

P. W. Filby. A Bibliography of American County Histories. Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Company, 1985. 449 pp. $24.95.

Researchers working in areas any distance from their own home will find this book an invaluable source of what is available for a given county or region. Containing nearly 5000 entries, the Bibliography gives pertinent information on all county histories of any significance, including author, title, place and date of publication, and any details as to reprints and indexes. Genealogical libraries and genealogists will find this book extremely helpful.

Nettie Schreiner-Yantis. Genealogical and Local History Books in Print. Fourth edition. Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Company, 1985. 2 vols. 1728 pp. $27.50.

This bibliography contains over 30000 books, microfilms, and microfiche currently available to assist researchers, with full details on ordering copies. The two volumes contain: names and addresses of vendors (each with a code number), general references, research sources available by locality, listed state by state, family histories, and an index to the family histories. There are 25 pages of sources for Maryland alone, listed under statewide sources, census and census indexes, maps, atlases and Gazeteers, military records, newspapers, periodicals, research aids, source records, and then a listing of what is available for each county. This is another source genealogical libraries must have and individual researchers will find it so helpful they may wish to invest in a set for their own use.

MARYLAND RESEARCH

Gaius Marcus Brumbaugh. Maryland Records: Colonial, Revolutionary, County and Church, from Original Sources. 2 vols. Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Company, 1985. Indexed. $60.00.

In reprinting this standard Maryland reference, the Genealogical Publishing Company has once again made available one of the first statewide volumes of genealogical source material, which contains abstracts of parish records, oaths of fidelity, the extant 1776 census, marriage licenses, and numerous other sources. The work is so familiar to Maryland genealogists that all this reviewer need say is: here it is again. If you need a copy now is your chance. Recommended.

LOCAL SOURCES

Baltimore Cemeteries, Volume 2: Eastern Baltimore County and a few Cemeteries in the Northern Area. Collected by the Baltimore County Genealogical Society. c.r. 1985 by the Maryland Genealogical Society. 184 pp. Indexed. $14.00. (Copies may be ordered from Family Line Publications, whose address is at the top of p. 3).

There is no doubt that the information in this volume will be extremely helpful to Baltimore County researchers, and that the Maryland Genealogical Society and Baltimore County Historical Society are to be commended for cooperating in such a venture. The price is reasonable, and the book is highly recommended for libraries, societies, and individuals, but this reviewer is former chairman of the Cemetery Committee of the Baltimore County Historical Society, and a former President of the Maryland Genealogical Society and he is deeply disappointed that the MGS could not take a few extra minutes to compose a Table of Contents, or have the book retyped with a modern electric typewriter. The reviewer hopes that the 3rd volume will present a more professional appearance.

Walter E. Arps, Jr. Departed This Life: Death Notices from the Baltimore Sun, 1851-1853. Silver Spring: Family Line Publications, 1985. 171 pp. $14.00.

Mr. Arps deserves great praise for his patience in abstracting death notices from the Baltimore Sun for the years indicated and this reviewer hopes he will continue. The introduction contains numerous thoughtful comments on the meanings of certain terms in newspaper obituaries, and a list of the abbreviations for common terms used in abstracting the obituaries. Unlike the earlier indices to marriages and death notices in the Sun, this volume contains all the pertinent information in the death notice. One page revealed references to Alexandria, Va.; Penna.; and Ohio; London; Harford County; Wilmington, Delaware; Wales; and Prince Georges County. Use of this book will not be confined to researchers of Baltimore area families, but for the whole state as well. To enhance the usefulness of the book the author has compiled an index of non-subject names, and a list of Old Defenders mentioned. Libraries and individuals must have this book.

F. Edward Wright. Baltimore Directory of 1807. Silver Spring: Family Line Publications, 1985. 91 pp. $10.00.

This is the third in a series of reprints of early Baltimore City Directories. Like its predecessors it contains a list of Baltimore inhabitants with occupations and addresses. There are abbreviations given for the sections of Baltimore: O.T. for Old Town, F. P. for Falls Point, and so forth. There is a supplement containing the names, removals, and dissolution of firms which occurred during the time the directory was in progress. The reviewer has a few suggestions for future directories in the series of reprints. The publisher will want to include lists of any abbreviations, and wherever any supplemental matter on locations of streets, public buildings, lists of city officials was included in the originals, this material should be included in the reprint. Finally, it might be interesting to include a reproduction of the original title page, if at all possible. Despite these suggestions, the reviewer warmly recommends Baltimore researchers, school librarians, and historians to order a copy of this book, while societies and libraries are also urged to add this to their collections.

F. Edward Wright. Newspaper Abstracts of Cecil and Harford Counties, 1822-1830. Silver Spring: Family Line Publications, 1984. 81 pp. Indexed. $8.50.

The author has developed a style of abstracting information from newspapers that compacts a great deal of information into a small space. Marriages, deaths, notices of administrations of estates, business notices, property for sale or rent, and lists of letters in the post office are all included. Each issue of a newspaper is given a serial number, and names are indexed by their entry number and NOT by page number. The full name index contains names of individuals, tract names, and mills. An invaluable addition to the library of Marylandiana.
