Documents Relating to the Colonial History of the State of New Jersey, First Series — Vol. XXXII. Calendar of New Jersey Wills, Administrations, Etc., Vol. III — 1751-1760, edited by A. Van Doren Honeyman of Committee on Colonial Documents. Originally published by Unionist-Gazette Association Printers, Somerville, NY: 1924. A Facsimile Reprint published by Heritage Books, Inc., 1994. Pp. 469. Paper. Two Indexes: Names of Persons and Place-names. Introductory note by the Editor. $42.00 plus $3.50 s/h. ISBN: 0-7884-0122-X.

This is the third volume in a series begun by William Nelson and continued by A. Van Doren Honeyman. Included are wills, administrations, and guardianships from January 1, 1751 through December 31, 1760. Abstracts are made from the originals in the office of the Secretary of the State in Trenton. Book page and location of the records are given. This collection of early will abstracts provides about 2,400 testaments, intestacies, or guardianships and includes two indexes.

Considering some of the early citizens of Maryland may have lived in or originated from New Jersey, this book could prove invaluable in the documentation of their predecessors.

Virginia Carolorum: The Colony Under the Rule of Charles the First and Second, 1625-1685., Based Upon Manuscripts and Documents of the Period, by Edward D. Neill. Originally printed by Joel Munsells's Sons, 82 State St., Albany, NY, 1886. A Facsimile Reprint published by Heritage Books, Inc., 1994. Pp. 447. Paper. Preface by the author. Appendix and everyname plus subject index. $31.00 plus $4.00 s/h. ISBN: 0-7884-0478-4.

Those who were prominent in shaping the destinies of the Virginia Colony from 1625 to 1685 have been represented here in this volume of letters, lists, and other documents such as ship passenger lists, servants' indenture contracts, and court records that have been compiled into an extremely interesting and well organized book.

Especially interesting is this book's chronicles of relations with Indians, Spaniards, and the neighboring colony of Maryland. The appendix contains additional notes and documents including wills, letters, and court papers.

This book goes beyond just facts and documentation; it is an excellent read and well worth the cost..

Apprentices to Maryland from Christ's Hospital, London

by Jack E. Morpurgo
and Robert Barnes

Christ's Hospital was founded by King Edward VI in 1552 for the "hungry, naked, and cold who had lain too long abroad in the streets of London." Although these children seemed unlikely candidates for advanced education, within ten years of its establishment, Christ's Hospital was sending boys to Oxford and Cambridge Universities.

Many boys did not go to University, but were well trained to keep accounts, or be cartographers or surveyors. They often became indentured servants and settled in the colonies. Among these were an Auditor General of Virginia, a Speaker of the House of Burgesses in North Carolina, and the personal attorney of George Washington.

For more on the history of Christ's Hospital, see "A Thing Without Parallel: Christ's Hospital and America," by J. E. Morpurgo, Colonial Williamsburg, Autumn, 1988, 7-12.

Jack Eric Morpurgo, Professor of American Literature at the University of Leeds, and a graduate of Christ's Hospital, is interested in tracing the careers of the young men who left Christ's Hospital to settle in the New World. He has compiled a list of young men who were apprenticed to Marylanders. The list is enclosed, and has been augmented by some information in Robert Barnes' files.

Anyone who can add to our knowledge of the information is asked to send the data either to Robert Barnes, 9219 Snyder Lane, Perry Hall, MD 21128-9413, or to Professor Jack E. Morpurgo, 12 Laurence Mews, Askew Road, London W12 9AT, England.

Selected Final Pension Payment Vouchers, 1818-1864: Maryland: Baltimore, by Alycon Trubey Pierce, CG. Lovettsville (VA): Willow Bend Books, 1997. Pp. xii, 263. Indexed. Paper. $24.00 plus $4.00 s/h.

In the introduction, Pierce describes the record group at the National Archives from which these abstracts are taken. Most of the abstracts are for payments to veterans of the Revolutionary War, but many were made to those who fought in the War of 1812. The processes for "last payments" and "final payments," a description of the abstracts, and how to order copies of the originals are also discussed.

This book is packed with helpful information on some 758 Marylanders who served their country.

Robert Barnes

Baltimore City Deaths and Burials, 1834-1840, by Henry C. Peden, Jr. Westminster: Family Line Publications, 1998. Pp. vii, 407. Paper. $35.50.

In 1945 William N. Wilkins abstracted information on some 9000 burials in Baltimore City. He found his information in the weekly reports of Baltimore City Cemetery workers who listed anyone who had died in a given week, their age, cause of death, and place of burial. Wilkins admitted his chronological list did not include all the names.

Henry Peden has taken those 9000 entries, and supplemented the entries with data from newspapers, church records, and other cemetery inscriptions. The original entry of John Lang said he died of consumption, age 50, and was buried in the Associate Reformed Cemetery. The obituary in the newspaper added that he died 11 Dec. 1834, was a native of Scotland, and was a resident of Baltimore for many years.

Because any other names in an entry are cross referenced in the text, there is no need for an index.

This is one of the finest books Henry Peden has compiled. Family historians will find it useful, and students of local history will want to have it as well.

Robert Barnes

Abstracts of the Administration Accounts of the Prerogative Court of Maryland: Libers 37-45, 1754-1760, by V. L. Skinner, Jr. Westminster: Family Line Publications, 1998. pp. vi, 269. Indexed. $33.00.

This is another excellent book in the series of abstracts of Maryland probate records compiled by Skinner. The entries give the name of the decedent, book and page number of the original liber, county of death, amount of the inventory, amount of payments, the date the account was filed, and the name(s) of the executor(s) or administrator(s). The entries may also contain names of sureties, those who received payments (which may include relatives), representatives, and legatees. If minor children were included, Skinner has given their ages. In the index, the pages with the decedents' accounts are underlined. The name John Smith appears on 22 pages, but page 104 is underlined, so that is where his account will be found.

All of Skinner's books are a welcome addition to the genealogist's bookshelves, but it seems that each one is just a little bit better than the previous one.

The Vestry Book of Christ Church Parish Middlesex County, Virginia, 1663-1767. Originally Transcribed, Annotated and Indexed by C.G. Chamberlayne. Old Dominion Press, Richmond, Virginia: 1927. A Facsimile Reprint Heritage Books, Inc., Bowie, Maryland 20716: 1997. ISBN 0-7884-0806-2. Order item #C 305. 379 pp., illus, name and topic indices, paper. $28.50 plus $4.00 s/h. Chamberlayne had done the genealogical public a great service when he published the earliest records of Christ Church Parish, Middlesex County, Virginia. These records predated by several years the establishment of the parish in 1666. Some entries in this vestry book refer to Lancaster Parish and Middlesex County.

Each page contains gems of genealogical history that might not be found elsewhere. There are some Oaths of Allegiance scattered throughout the Vestry Records.

Included are fascinating facets of everyday life and love, including the description of just who would be the only person allowed to issue a Marriage License.

Issues such as the affairs of the running of a parish and social issues like bastardy, the care of the sick and poor, and burial, are centralized under the parish. Fees for services by the parish members caring for the less fortunate were paid in pounds of tobacco.

One of the most striking issues in the Vestry Book is a virtual definition of just what slavery and slaves entailed. A female slave and the "child of her body" were part and parcel of the belongings of the individual master. Runaway slaves who could not be reclaimed from repeatedly running away or lying out could be punished upon complaint and proof thereof by the owner to dismember or any other way "...not touching life" as the said County Court think fitt (sic.). "All Free Negross (sic.) Mulattos or Indians Except Tributary Indian to this Government Male or female above the Age of Sixteen Years and all wives of Such Negross Mulattos or Indians...Shall be Deemed and Accounted Tythables any law usage or Custom to the Contrary in any wise notwithstanding." In other words, they were chattel, but taxpayers.

For those with ancestors in Middlesex County, Virginia, this Vestry Book is essential.

Ancestral Trails: The Complete Guide to British Genealogy and Family History, by Mark D. Heber. Published in the USA by the Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., by arrangement with Sutton Publishing Ltd., 1998. Pp. xiv, 674. Indexed, illus., bibliog. $34.95.

How many family historians would like to find a photograph and physical description of a nineteenth century ancestor? There is a whole series of such photographs and descriptions described in Heber's book; they are found in the prison registers of the time, and are described in the text.

Researchers wanting to pursue their English ancestry will find this volume packed with helpful information on a variety of topics ranging from civil registration of births, marriages, and deaths, to churchyards and cemeteries, to apprenticeship records; from census records to Catholic and Non-conformist and Jewish records, to university and school registers.

Genealogists have at their fingertips a host of records to consult: 94 illustrations to demonstrate what the records look like, and a bibliography keyed in to the sources mentioned in the text. So up-to-date is this book that there are references to Internet sources in the index.

Highly recommended.

Netting your Ancestors: Genealogical Research on the Internet, by Cyndi Howells. Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1997. pp. 182. Indexed. $19.95.

Many of us grew up doing our research with pencil and index cards, then we learned to use personal computers to record, store, and publish our findings, and now we must (if we want to be up-to-date) learn to take advantage of the Internet. There is a plethora of genealogical materials, finding aids, and other sources available on the Internet, and Cyndi's List is one of, if not the, best website to locate them. This book, by the originator of Cyndi's List, is packed with practical helps on using cyberspace in your research. Chapters deal with genealogical software needed, e-mail, mailing lists and newsgroups, the World Wide Web, downloading software, and a glossary of Internet terms.

Highly recommended.

The Original Scots Colonists of Early America: Supplement: 1707-1707, by David Dobson. Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1998. Pp. xiv, 183. $22.50.

Using primary and secondary sources from both the United Kingdom and United States, Dobson has compiled a volume that adds to some of the entries in his original work, and also has some completely new data.

Marylanders included in this book include Andrew Anderson, Geillis Baillie, Ninian Beall, Henry Boston, Charles Dalrymple, Andrew Monroe, and William Trail, to name but a few.

This book is a must-have for libraries and for those individuals who have Scottish ancestry, and for those who think that they may have Scottish ancestry.

Land and Property Research in the United States, by E. Wade Home. Salt Lake City: Ancestry Research, 1997. pp. xiv, 517. Indexed, illus. $49.95 + $5.00 s/h.

In any settled area of the United States, land records comprise the most voluminous type of records available for research. An individual can only die once, and have one set of probate records.

A person may marry two or three times, and have one set of records for each marriage — but people can buy and sell land, patent and inherit land many times. Each of these transactions should be recorded.

Topics in this book deal with Colonial Spanish, British, French, and Mexican Possessions, each of which may have their own laws, with State-Land and Federal-Land States, and Individual Lands. Specific chapters include Records Generated by the type of Possession, and Strategies for using these records. There is a chapter on Native American Land Records.

Researchers whose ancestors come from Federal-Land States, or whose relatives migrated to those areas will find those chapters particularly helpful. This is a most helpful book and is highly recommended for those interested in the topic.

Fragmenta Genealogica. Volume 4, by Frederick Arthur Crisp. (1899). Repr.: Bowie: Heritage Books, Inc., 1996. Pp. 98. Indexed, illus. (Order item #C004) $20.00+ $4.00 s/h. (Visa/Master Card/Checks/ Money Orders accepted.)

The compiler included miscellaneous deeds, Bible entries, Grants of Arms, Monumental Inscriptions, and Wills and Administrations in this slim volume, which contains some information on a number of English families.

Some of the major families included in this volume are the Bonamy, Cavell, Cole, Compton, Cotton, Freind (or Friend), Gibson Jocelyn, Jones, Neame, and Perceval families.

Fragments can be frustrating, but persons working on the families will find clues pointing them to places and sources for additional research.

Recommended for researchers interested in English research.

Gorsuch Marriage References

by Robert Barnes

The following marriage references were copied from Hodges' Marriage References, a card index at the Maryland State Archives. Occasionally the name appears as Gorsage or Gossage, but they are all grouped here under Gorsuch. As always it is a good idea to check an abstract against the original record. All of the records cited below are at the Maryland State Archives.

Mt. Carmel Cemetery Records, 1883-1893, published by Family Line Publications for the Baltimore County Genealogical Society, 1998. Pp. xi, 372. Indexed, illustrated. $34.00 plus $3.00 s/h.

This is the first book of records to be published, but it will be the second book in the series. Following an introduction by Janice Debelius Hardiung, which discusses the history of the cemetery, the text contains entries that contain name of deceased, place of birth, late residence, date of birth or age at death, date of interment, cause of death, and plot and lot. The 4,903 records are arranged by area and lot number, but the full name index enables researchers to locate anyone.

Many people have worked very hard to bring this project to fruition, and the Society is justly proud of their work.

Copies can be ordered from the Society at PO Box 10085, Towson, MD 21285-0085.

Middling Planters of Ruxton, 1694-1850, by Joseph M. Coale, III. Baltimore: The Maryland Historical Society, 1996. Pp. xi, 83. Illustrated, indexed. $24.95.

Using land records, wills, inventories, maps, and newspapers, the author has put together a well-written history of the Ruxton area that is interesting and informative. Mr. Coale arranged the bulk of his book on the early land grants in the area: Samuel's Hope, Hector's Hopyard, Bosley's Adventure, Young Man's Adventure, Martinton and Martin's Adventure, Hooker's Prosperity, and Beale's Discovery. The final chapter deals with the Baltimore and Susquehanna Railroad. There is a full name index which not only includes the names of individuals mentioned, but also topics and place names discussed in the text.

This book is highly recommended for anyone interested in Baltimore County local history and families. Copies can be ordered from The Maryland Historical Society, 201 West Monument St., Baltimore, MD 21201.

Provincial Families of Maryland: Volume I, compiled under the direction of Vernon L. Skinner, Jr. Published by the Genealogical Council of Maryland, 1998. Available from Family Line Publications, Westminster. Pp. viii, 141. Indexed. Paper. $12.00.

The Provincial Families project was begun in the early 1980s by Mary K. Meyer, the Chairman of the Council. It was an effort to identify families that lived in Maryland prior to 4 July 1776. The 24 lines included here contain biographical data on each member of the family, and each generation is fully documented. Since many of the lines follow descendants of daughters, there are more than two dozen families discussed.

Baltimore County families included in the book include: Byal, Cockey, Onion, Parks, Tolley, and Wells.

The book concludes with instructions to anyone interested in registering their pedigree with the Council. It is a worthwhile addition to the Maryland bookshelf.

Royalty for Commoners: Third Edition, by Roderick W. Stuart. Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Co., 1998. Pp. x, 332. Indexed. Cloth. $35.00 plus $3.50 s/h.

For those who can trace their family back to John of Gaunt, or any of the other children of Edward III and Philippa of Hainault, this book has supplied their ancestry from Edward and Philippa back. Each of the 436 lines is documented, and there is a full index. This edition contains a number of changes from previous additions: some two dozen new lines have been added; sources now include dates of publication; there are two indexes: one every-name index, and an index of royal titles; some lines are taken into the pre-Christian era; and the Bibliography of over 2,000 sources has been considerably expanded. Mr. Stuart has examined his sources carefully, and has annotated many of his entries. When describing Turton's Plantagenet Ancestry, he writes: "This work has never been revised and thus contains errors, but it is useful in supporting other works with which it is in agreement."

The book is an essential resource for anyone interested in royal genealogy.

Robert Barnes

Genealogical Encyclopedia of the Colonial Americas, by Christine K. Schaefer. Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Co., 1998. Pp. xiv, 814. Indexed, illustrated. $49.95.

In this day and age of mobility, more and more people are finding that their family may have connections in many places around the globe. To assist those people, the compiler has compiled a complete digest of the records of all the countries in the Western Hemisphere. She has arranged her material in seven parts: 1) a chronology, 2) Latin America, 3) The Caribbean, 4) The Thirteen Colonies, 5) other U. S. states with settlements prior to the Revolution; 6) Canada; and 7) resources for further research. The last group deals with religious groups, and research in Europe.

The section on Maryland opens with a brief account of the colony, followed by a summary of statewide records and resources. The Calvert Papers are discussed, and the section closes with a list of published sources, finding aids, and church records.

Ms Schaefer has gathered a wealth of material and arranged it in an easy-to-use manner. This reviewer recommends the book, but must point out one error: there is a well-known compiler of Maryland source records whose name is consistently given as Henry C. Eden.

John Waggoner (1751-1842) Margaret (Bonnett) Waggoner Ancestors, Families and Descendants, by Crystal V. Waggoner. Bowie: Heritage Books, Inc. Pp. 343. Indexed, illus. $28.00 + $4.00 s/h.

Included with the Waggoner and Bonnet lines, the reader can find additional information on collateral families of Wetzel, Jones, Watson, Solomon, Jones, Fry, and Pohlmann, among others. There are interesting maps of early Philadelphia, Virginia in 1748, and copies of old photos and some drawings of various Waggoner tombstones included.

Crystal V. Waggoner has put into this volume all that she has researched on the Waggoner and Bonnets. She has also tried to place in perspective the history of changing boundaries of counties and states. To take the old bones of history and flesh them out is hard work, but she has made a great effort to do so.

Neikirk-Newkirk-Nikirk and Related Families, Vol. 1 (Revised Edition), by W. N. Hurley. Bowie: Heritage Books, Inc., 1997. Pp. 401. Bibliography, photographs, all-inclusive name index. Paper. $29.50 plus $4.00 s/h.

W. N. Hurley has enlarged upon an already massive work concerning the Neikirk-Newkirk-Nikirk families. The Neikirk family originated in Germany and Holland and had many different spellings of the surname, depending on the geographic location and even within the various groups of the same family.

Three immigrant men are followed, including Mattheuse Cornelissen Van Nieuwkerck (1600), head of the Dutch families; Johann Heinrich Neukirch (1674), head of the German Palatines and Johann Heinrich Neukirch (1708), head of another New York family. From their origins, Hurley has traced the descendants of these progenitors across the United States from New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Ohio.

Included in this book are some collateral families including Alexander, Bell, Bodine, Brown, Burhans, Crispell, DuBois, Elmendorf, Gregory, Hamilton, Henderson, Johnson, Moore, Patterson, Roosa, Smith, Thompson, Van Keuren, Williams, Wynkoop and Zeagler, among numerous listings of Newkirks. Because of the copious listings of this particular surname, it could indeed be known as the penultimate reference.

An interesting inclusion is a portion of the 1876 diary of Estella Eldora Newkirk.

Our Maryland Heritage, Book Two: The Walker Families Being a Detailed Account of the Descendants of George Walker of Maryland, 1759-1826, by William Neal Hurley, Jr. Bowie: Heritage Books, Inc., 1997. Pp. 287. Bibliography, indexed. Paper. $23.00 plus $4.00 s/h.

It is only fitting that, being married to a Walker descendant, I should be the one to review this book. I have in my personal research some information relying on primary sources on the Jacob Walker descendants. What Mr. Hurley has done is to present information that he obtained from other books and Mormon Records that is incorrect, and thus, he has done a great disservice to the hard work and research done by me, over a period of years on this particular individual and his descendants.

He has relied on Mormon records without conclusive proofs. "Garbage in, garbage out" as my wise husband is known to say. Various persons over time have mixed at least two, possibly three of the Walker families so completely blenderizing their existence that the Germanic form of the surname Wacker or Waker is not evident. One would suppose that this comes from being a compiler of the work of others and for that, I cannot fault him. I am so very sorry that I could not be more charitable towards this work.

Of the other Maryland Walker families, Mr. Hurley has presented them in a reasonably clear fashion, placing the various Walker branches in Maryland into the appropriate county where the records are located.

Descendants of Reuben Phillips, by John Wesley Phillips. Bowie: Heritage Books, Inc., 1995. Pp. 419. Maps, fullname index. Paper. This book is no longer available, but could be acquired if enough requests are sent to Heritage Books. No price is available at this writing. Call Heritage for current information and price.

This book includes just a bit of just about everything he ever saw or collected, John Wesley Phillips summed it up in his introduction. "There is no such thing as a complete family history ... Not everyone wants to know all about their ancestors." Maybe not, but Phillips surely has tried to tell it all.

The first Phillips to come over the water, as it were, lived on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, Talbot County, in about 1660. Thomas and Catherine were the progenitors of this particular branch of the Phillips family. This book places them and their kin in Cecil, Dorsett and with Reuben Phillips, in Frederick Co. If your ancestors were descended from Reuben Phillips, then maybe you do want to know. In this book are the bits and pieces, great Bible records, census, and even funeral records are recorded. There is at least one example of a prescription ordered for another Phillips person. There are the detailed genealogical stories of at least nine Phillips families from many states including Maryland, North Carolina, Georgia and Texas. This book should probably should have the title, The Phillips Complete History. Letters, both old and new, are entered in their fullness. One could get weighed down by the minutia.

Our Maryland Heritage, Book 10: Perry Families by William Neal Hurley, Jr. Bowie: Heritage Books, Inc., 1998. Pp. 276. Bibliography, fullname index. Paper. $22.50 plus $4.00 s/h.

W. N. Hurley, Jr. has written other books on Maryland surnamed families including Niekirk-Newkirk-Nikerk (2 vols.) Hurley, (2 vols.) Hines, Maddox, Pratt, Lowder and now the ten Maryland Heritage Series spotlighting the Fry, Walker, Fulks, Watkins, King, Burdette, Soper, Brandenburg and Purdum Families. This volume, the tenth, deals almost exclusively with the Perry families originating in Frederick, Montgomery and Calvert Counties. The descendants are located in at least twenty-three counties in Maryland.

An interesting introduction cites the earliest Perry ancestor as Nicholas Perrie, crew member of the Dove when it landed on St. Clements Island on March 25, 1634. The introduction lays the foundation for and helps to explain the evolution and formation of the various Maryland counties and their source counties from 1789.

The seven-page bibliography was impressive and listed the source material that Mr. Hurley utilized

Accomack County, Virginia, Court Order Abstracts, 1663-1666: Vol. 1, by JoAnn Riley McKey. Bowie: Heritage Books, Inc., 1996. Pp. 201. Indexed, bibliography. Paper. $21.00 plus $4.00 s/h.

This is the first volume of a series of six books by JoAnn Riley McKey dealing with the very earliest Court Order Abstracts beginning on April 21, 1663. Included are the progenitors of many families that formed the historic fabric of this country. Noted are the surnames of Anderson, Atkinson, Browne, Hodgkins, Hutchison, Johnson, Marshall, Mountfort, Parker, Revell, Scarborough (Scarborough), Taylor, Toft, Wallis, Wise, Yeo, Watson, Watts and White as some of the first white settlers who went on to weave the fabric of the State of Virginia and the Eastern Shore of Virginia, known as Accawmak, when formed in 1634. This original Virginia county was renamed Northampton County in 1642/43 and the northern part subsequently became Accomack County.

Those with roots in the Eastern Shore of Virginia would be well advised to include all of the volumes by JoAnn Riley McKey in their private libraries. Included among the primary documents cited are certificates granted to those individuals who transported persons from Europe, naming the settlers, jury lists, titheables, and various court records. Mention of various cattle brands was also listed.

Accomack County, Virginia, Court Order Abstracts, 1678-1682: Vol. 6, by JoAnn Riley McKey. Bowie: Heritage Books, Inc., 1996. Pp. 264. $23.50 plus $4.00 s/h.

Continuing the fine series of six volumes ends with Volume 6 of Accomack County, Virginia Court Abstracts by JoAnn Riley McKey. The original surnames are those of the earlier volumes and now including the surnames of Custis, Jenifer, Nock (Knox) Stringer and Wallop (those familiar with the Eastern Shore of today would recognize Wallops Island) and Welbourne.

Among the pages included in Volume 6 of JoAnn Riley McKey's wonderful collection are stories of poignancy. Documents that would be most helpful to the researcher are on every page. Included are personal letters, matters of disagreement, pay rates and costs, wills and deeds.

This series of volumes is an absolute must for the serious researcher with roots in the Eastern Shore of Virginia.

Virginia/West Virginia Genealogical Data from Revolutionary War Pension and Bounty Land Warrant Records, Volume 2 B, Dabbs through Hyslop, compiled by Patrick G. Wardell, Lt. Col., U.S. Army (Retired). Bowie: Heritage Books, Inc., 1990. Indexed. Paper. $33.50 plus $4.00 s/h.

Genealogical data that was compiled from the National Archives, the information covers some very interesting and most significant information pertaining to Virginia people and their families. It is but one more example of the wealth of facts that one can uncover from various sources. Gleaned from Revolutionary War Pension and Bounty Land Warrant Records, Vol. 2 covers Dabbs through Hyslop. Heritage Books, Inc., has Volumes 4, 5 and 6 available as well. One can only wonder where are Volumes 1 and 3?

Patrick Wardell intended that this volume be used to complement another of his books, also by Heritage Books, Inc., about Virginians entitled, War of 1812: Virginia Land and Bounty Applicants.

As microfilmed documents are sometimes difficult to read, even a compiler might misread a name. The reader of this book is therefore cautioned to consider all possible spellings of a particular surname. Fortunately, Mr. Wardell has included an excellent index which would make this search easier.

Early Church Records of Chester County, Pennsylvania: Volume 3, by Martha Reamy. Westminster: Family Line Publications, 1998. Pp. xi, 197. Indexed. $17.00 plus $2.00 s/h.

The Introduction contains a brief history of all the churches and religious groups in Chester County, and includes a map of the county townships. The compiler has transcribed births, marriages, and deaths from Kennett and London Grove Monthly Meetings, and entries from the Vestry Book of St. John's Prot. Episcopal Church, Pequay, and names of members of Great Valley Baptist Church.

The book is recommended, but the reviewer wishes some explanation could be given as to why there two sets of entries from Kennett Meeting, and why the register of births, deaths, and marriages of St. John's were not included.

African American Inhabitants of Rapides Parish, Louisiana, 1 June - 4 September 1870, by Harry F. Dill. Bowie: Heritage Books, Inc., 1998. Pp. 373. Preface, indexed. Paper. $29.00 plus $4.00 s/h.

Given that the location is only one of the Louisiana Parishes (counties), and the time frame so precisely limited, we are looking at a very special collection of names on the 1870 census of all African Americans in Rapides Parish, Louisiana, by full names, age, sex, occupation and place of birth. A valuable research source, this is the first periodic Rapides, Louisiana population enumeration of a specific group of blacks, mulattos and a few whites who had African Americans in their families. The beginning letter of the surnames listed tends to run down the length of the alphabet, except for Z.

The reader can see surnames commonly associated with tri-racial (White, Indian and Black) mixed groups as well. The rule of the Federal Census Bureau at that time was that the census takers in 1870 consider "a family as one or more persons living together and provided for in common." Since the names are grouped by families, one can see the relative ages, birthplaces, sex and occupations of all listed.

Considering that the time was 1870, only a few short years from the Civil War and the Emancipation Proclamation freeing slaves, this is a valuable work as many records previous to this time were burned by soldiers in the various courthouses and repositories all over the South. This is the second book by Harry F. Dill and represents a fleeting moment in time, frozen on these pages.

Pioneer Irish in New England, by Michale J. O'Brien, LL.D. (1937) Facsimile reprint by Heritage Books, Inc., (Bowie), 1988. Pp. 325. Preface, appendix, indexed. Paper. $25.00 plus $4.00 s/h.

Occasionally, one comes across a book jammed with information of very high quality that is found in one place. Michael J. O'Brien, if he is still living, should be thanked for putting the information together in a readable, well-written, enjoyable, and informative book on those of Irish descent who emigrated from Ireland to the American Colonies in their youth. By the time of the Revolutionary War, fully 38 percent of the soldiers were Irish, and wanting the severing of all ties with England, they were eager to cast their lot with the founding of a new country.

It is true that many more Irish persons in massive numbers arrived much later as the result of the potato famine in Ireland. It is also a fact that the influx of immigrants had been steadily increasing since the earliest of times during the settling on our land by the Europeans.

Mr. O'Brien's preface is a wonderful historic snapshot of the political climate leading to the migration of the Irish to the New England region before 1700. There is some mention of Virginia and other colonies.

The History of the City of Albany, New York from Discovery of the Great River in 1524 by Verrazzano, to the Present Time, by Arthur James Weise, M.A. (1884). Bowie: Heritage Books, Inc., 1998. Pp. 520. Maps, illustrations, everyname and subject index, addenda. Paper. $41.00 plus $4.00 s/h.

Commissioned by Francis I, King of France, Giovanni da Verrazzano discovered the Grande (later Hudson) River in 1523. This book tells many of the parts of the history of Albany's past from that point up until about 1883. According to Heritage Books, Inc., this is the first known separate history of Albany.

A really huge book, filled with descriptions of the early aboriginal settlements and the pioneer French, Dutch and English ones. The comparatively large font of the type used in this book is quite easy to read. Illustrations were finely done and lovely to see. It is a pleasure to have such a book on the "available" list of quality reprints by Heritage Books, Inc.

There are many lists of the various fraternal and religious groups and banks which had been active in Albany from the early times up until Weise had the book printed initially in 1884. This finely detailed book lists the churches, the mayors (up until publication), the names of the streets that had been changed over the years, the banks and a list of the newspapers in the city dating from 1771 to 1883.

Notes from the Baltimore County Levy Lists For 1737 and 1739

by Robert Barnes

Levy lists were the accounts of money owed by the county government to the inhabitants for a variety of services. These services might include the care of sick, indigent old people or children, the bringing in of squirrels' heads, or service on the jury. Unlike tax lists which only listed men, levy lists often included the names of women.

The following notes show some of the services (exclusive of jury duty, road service, or bringing in of squirrels' heads) for which citizens were compensated by the county government.

St. Alphonsus' Cemetery

by Robert Barnes

An article in the Baltimore Sun, 2 June 1926, headed "Old St. Alphonsus' Cemetery Slowly Is Giving Up Its Dead," described how the growth of city living was pressing to take over the acres now occupied by uncared for graves and sunken hollows.

The cemetery was located at Biddle St. and Loney's lane, and was the second Catholic burial ground established in Baltimore. At the time the article was written, the cemetery was in the hands of the authorities of St. James' Catholic Church, who were working as rapidly as possibly to buy up the deeds of the lots and move the graves to other cemeteries.

Mrs. M. B. Dorbert, the caretaker, reported that the ground had been purchased by St. Alphonsus Catholic Church some 76 years earlier (c1850), and it was once the most beautiful and cared for cemetery in the city.

The article described the desolation and decay of the cemetery, which had more than 2,000 untended tombs.

This small cemetery is located in Fork, 11th District, Baltimore County. From the 12900 block Fork Road, turn onto Cherry Hill Lane and proceed two-tenths of a mile. The cemetery is on the right-hand side of the road, partially enclosed with an old iron fence in disrepair. The cemetery measures 35 feet by 50 feet. In November 1998, there were 8 tombstones, plus fragments of others. These were copied by Pat Czerniewski and Carol Porter.

This cemetery was located on the “Charlesborough” estate, which Thomas Gorsuch owned when he died in 1864. In his will probated in 1865, he divided lands among his children: Thomas B.; Joseph H.; Elizabeth A., wife of George W. League; and Edwin A. (Baltimore Co. Will Book, JLR 2:388). It was Thomas B. Gorsuch who inherited a 258 acre part of “Charlesborough,” which contained the cemetery (Baltimore Co. Deed Book, JHL 51:103). In 1906, Thomas B. Gorsuch and wife Amelia E., of New York City, sold 100 acres of land to Frank M. Gorsuch of Baltimore City (Baltimore Co. Deed Book, WPC 298:511). It is in this deed that a cemetery clause first appears:

“Saving and excepting from the above mentioned tract the grave-yard as now fenced in, about 35 by 49 feet, and the right of ingress and egress to and from said grave-yard if at any time necessary, over the above described land in such wise as to do the least possible injury to any crop therein.”

The property was sold many times thereafter, but remains a 100-acre parcel with the cemetery clause repeated in all deeds including the last one, recorded 7 July 1998 (Baltimore Co. Deed Book 13012:82).

Photographs of all tombstones, footstones, and fragments are deposited in the BCGS vertical file. Also here are abstracts or photocopies of deeds from 1866 to 1955, as well as other research papers.

Colonial Settlers of Prince George's County, by Elise Jourdan. Westminster: Family Line Publications, 1998. Pp. 429. Indexed. $35.00.

It is always a pleasure to see another book by Elise Jourdan, who has combed parish, probate, and chancery court records to present in a condensed form data on many Prince George's County families. Although the entries may be brief, the citations to sources are given so that the researcher can find the original material.

Some of the Prince George's families that had ties to Baltimore County included the Burch, Burke, Bussey, Greene, Greenfield, Price, and Wheeler families.

Let us hope that the compiler will now turn her attention to St. Mary's and Calvert Counties. Like Elise Jourdan's other books, this one comes highly recommended.

History of New Paltz, New York and its Old Families from 1678-1820, by Ralph Lefevre. Bowie: Heritage Mt. Carmel Cemetery Records, 1854-1882. The Baltimore County Genealogical Society, 1998. Pp. 265. Indexed. $21.50.

Mt. Carmel Cemetery Records, 1893-1905, The Baltimore County Genealogical Society, 1998. Pp. 400. Indexed. $32.00.

These two volumes bring together over 10,000 records of interments in one of Baltimore's oldest cemeteries. Arranged by areas and plots, the entries give the name of the deceased, date of death/burial, place of birth, age at death, last residence or place of death, cause of death, marital status, and remarks. The full name index enables the researchers to use the book carefully.

The volumes are carefully researched, and include a history of the cemetery. On a personal note, this reviewer is happy to say that he found many of the Baltimoreans he was researching in these volumes. They are a must-have for people researching families in Baltimore City and County.

Robert Barnes

Free African Americans of Maryland, 1832, including Allegany, Anne Arundel, Calvert, Caroline, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Frederick, Kent, Montgomery, Queen Anne's, and St. Mary's Counties, by Jerry M. Hynson. Westminster: Family Line Publications, 1998. Pp. 161. Indexed. $12.50.

In 1831, the Maryland General Assembly passed an Act "Relating to People of Color in this State." One of the results of the act was an enumeration of African Americans in the state. For a long time the only known censuses were those for Harford, Somerset, and Talbot Counties, and they were published by Mary K. Meyer. The lists for the counties included in this work were recently found among the papers of the Maryland Colonization Society.

The book lists the names and ages of free blacks in the counties indicated. A surname index is included. The book is an important addition to the field of Maryland genealogy, and is strongly recommended for anyone interested in the areas indicated.

History of Cecil County, Maryland, by George Johnston. (1881) Repr.: Bowie: Heritage Books, Inc., 1998. pp. xii, 557. Indexed. Price not available.

This is yet another reprint of a well known 19th century study of Cecil County. There is a subject and full name index, but it appears to be the one compiled by Johnston. Frankly, this reviewer prefers the 1989 reprint by the Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., which had a brand new complete index. Still, if that one is not available, persons interested in Cecil County might want to consider this one.
